Hi-Jackers and Rum Runners in Badger Battle

Police End Running Fight on Highway in Kewaunee-co

NAB TRUCK DRIVER Alcohol Truck Seized by Sheriff and Traffic Officer

Kewaunee, Wis.—(P)—Gang methods were introduced to Kewaunee early today near Stangelville, on Highway 96, when two big automobiles of rum runners and hi-jackers staged a running gun fight over an alcohol truck. One man, who said his name was Harry Andrews, Sheriff's boy, was captured by county officials, who were tipped off by a telephone call that the battle was in progress.

Andrews was the driver of a truck loaded with 300 gallons of alcohol in one gallon cans, in addition to a 50-gallon drum of alcohol. He said he was driving toward Denmark when a car blocked his progress and two men climbed into his cab, pointed guns at him and ordered him to drive to the side of the road. The battle started as he drove over, he said, but he refused to say whether occupants of a second car were guards for his cargo.

Sheriff Joseph Kassner and William Jaeger, traffic officer, arrived upon the scene in the midst of heavy gun fire. Occupants of the two automobiles were blazing at each other. The bandits opened fire at the officers and then sped away.

A box of ammunition for a 32 rifle, a 12 gauge shotgun, and a blackjack were found in the truck cab. The truck and Andrews were taken to Kewaunee to be held for federal officers. Andrews did not resist the officers after the two cars sped from the scene.

Two Wounded by Gang in Robbery

Woman Bookkeeper and Bank Patron Shot by Illinois Bandits

North Chicago, Ill.—(P)—A young woman bookkeeper in the Lake County State bank was shot through the mouth and a patron was slightly wounded by four bandits who looted the bank of about $3,000, at noon today.

The robbers escaped in a Plymouth sedan, manned by a fifth bandit. They drove north toward Waukegan.

The four youths, all in their twenties, apparently, walked into the bank on Sheridan-rd. carrying shotguns and revolvers.

One walked up to the cage where Mrs. Moneta Steffen, 29, was working, thrust a pistol through the window and said "this is a stick-up." Then, nervous and excited although there was no move to resist, the robbers pulled the trigger and a bullet tore through the woman's mouth. The robber scooped up all the cash in sight while a companion let loose a shotgun charge, two slugs striking Otto Gast of North Chicago, a patron. Then they backed out of the bank and fled.

Mrs. Steffen and Gast were taken to Victory Memorial hospital at Waukegan.

Illinois Assembly to Consider Relief Bills

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—Relief legislation to aid 700,000 residents of the state was to be considered this afternoon at the opening of the fourth special session of the Illinois general assembly.

Twenty bills have been framed to meet the need which Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has said is imperative to ward off starvation of those now being fed by the state relief commission. The proposals include diversion of the 1 cent gas tax allotment to counties from road purposes to relief work; for increases in the state gas tax; sales taxes; and measures designed to make it possible for the state to take advantage of the federal bill financing slum reconstruction and the building of homes for persons of small incomes.

Cheese Manufacturer Dies at Fond du Lac

Fond du Lac, Wis.—(P)—Frank O. Schujahn, 60, cheese manufacturer and many years a leader in the cheese trade, fell dead on the sidewalk in front of his office here today. Heart trouble, which became aggravated after an operation in July, was held to be the cause of death.

Schujahn was president and treasurer of the Winnebago Cheese company and treasurer of the National Cheese Institute. Funeral services will take place Saturday afternoon in St. Peter Lutheran church. Schujahn is survived by his widow, four children, two brothers and two sisters.

SEN. HIRAM BINGHAM

Senator Bingham Is Renominated in Connecticut

State G. O. P. Asks Repeal Of 18th Amendment At Convention

New Haven, Conn.—(P)—United States Senator Hiram Bingham was renominated by the Republican state convention today in accepting Senator Bingham's bid in part.

"It is my belief that governmental expenditures ought to be kept as low as possible without endangering the national defense and the proper activities of government."

"It is my desire to see the industries of Connecticut and of the United States protected against cheap foreign competition."

"With regard to prohibition, I am sure you all know where I stand. I believe that this experiment in trying to make people good by law has failed."

"I am glad that President Hoover in his speech of acceptance has recognized the evils of the present situation and the necessity for a change."

"Public opinion in the communities can best regulate restrictions on personal liberty. I am for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the immediate modification of the Volstead act, and when I say 'immediate' I mean immediate."

Party for Repeal
Repeal of the eighteenth amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act was endorsed today by the resolutions committee preparing a platform for presentation before the convention.

The prohibition plank also recommended the return to the states of "the power to regulate, control or, if they will, prohibit the liquor traffic, leaving each state free to adapt its solution of the liquor problem, to the public sentiment of its citizens and to the conditions prevailing within its border."

Senator Bingham was commended "for his efforts for repeal in the Chicago convention and for his subsequent activities in the senate which put to the acid test the sincerity of the professions of the Democrats."

The committee also recommended such revision of the state enforcement act to make possible "automatic adjustment" with any future change which may be made in the federal prohibition laws.

The report commended the administration of President Hoover.

Stories Fail To Agree in Bern Suicide

Conflicting Accounts Given by Servants to Police in Quiz

WIDOW IS MYSTIFIED

Jean Harlow Says She Can't Explain Note Or Give Motive

Los Angeles, Calif.—(P)—Definite announcement was made by police today that Jean Harlow, screen actress, will be subpoenaed at a witness for the inquest tomorrow into the apparent suicide of her husband, Paul Bern, movie producer, who died here two months ago.

Inspector David Davidson said he would subpoena eleven other witnesses including Henry Bern, a brother of Paul, expected to arrive tonight from the east.

Los Angeles—(P)—Conflicting stories of weekend events which preceded the discovery of the body of Paul Bern, film producer and husband of Jean Harlow, plaintiff in the investigation of the apparent suicide today.

David A. Davidson, head of the police homicide squad, said he was dissatisfied with the progress his men have made in the case and, pending the inquest Thursday, he would again question domestic help of the producer. The inspector of detectives said the servants' accounts differ as to the events of last Saturday and Sunday.

The unclothed body of Bern, 42, was found by John Carmichael, butler, Monday in the dressing room of his home. A pistol, one chamber discharged, was gripped in Bern's right hand and a bullet wound was in the head. A note signed "Paul," addressed to "Dearest dear" and confessing a "trifling wrong" lay near a picture of Miss Harlow.

Stories Differ
Carmichael said the producer dined with Miss Harlow, his bride of two months, Saturday evening, but Harold A. Garrison, chauffeur, told police his employer left the film studio in Culver City and drove to the Ambassador hotel a few minutes after 6 o'clock p. m. Garrison further declared Miss Harlow was at the home of her mother both Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Miss Harlow was questioned by police last night after they had been turned to page 17 col. 7

4 Dead, 16 Injured In Two Accidents

3 Killed When Bucket Falls in Shaft—1 When Building Collapses

Chicago, Ill.—(P)—Two spectacular accidents took four lives and caused injuries to 16 persons last night.

Three workmen were killed and six injured when a cable broke permitting a bucket in which they were descending in a 185-foot shaft to fall.

One man was killed and ten persons hurt when a condemned and partly wrecked building collapsed. About 25 persons residing in the neighborhood were in the building hunting for firewood at the time of the accident.

The workers were engaged in the construction of a water tunnel. Soon after the men had started down in a steel bucket a cable snapped and the bucket shot downward. How far the men fell before the bucket hit the floor of the tunnel was not ascertained.

Chicago, Ill.—(P)—Joseph Mitchell, 32; William Sarvaria, 29; and John O'Brien, 35, were killed in the building collapse. Police and firemen searched the ruins for hours in expectation of finding other bodies but finally concluded all had escaped. Some of the ten injured were found beneath the debris. Several were said to have been seriously hurt.

Schenck Kidnaping Not Linked With Lindy Case

Washington, D. C.—(P)—J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the justice department's bureau of investigation, said today that a federal inquiry had disclosed no connection between the kidnaping of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., and Garrett Schenck, Hopewell, N. J., fish peddler.

Schenck claimed he was held a prisoner in a mountain cabin near Johnstown, Pa., for 76 days by a private investigator in the Lindbergh case, before Johnstown police effected his release.

"We are withdrawing from the Schenck case because our agents have found no federal law violated, either by Schenck or by those accused of kidnaping him," Hoover said.

Rudy Vallee's Wife Won't Ask Divorce; Couple Reconciled

Reno, Nev.—(P)—There will be no divorce for the Rudy Vallees, the former Fay Webb, actress wife of the crooning radio singer, said here today.

"It was all a mistake," Mrs. Vallee said. "I love my husband and always have loved him. I am leaving at noon for Santa Monica and will join Rudy later in New York. I'm happy."

The startling turn came as Mrs. Vallee was believed to be preparing to establish divorce residence here. A sudden realization that her separation from Vallee was all the result of a childish and foolish quarrel coupled with a midnight telephone conversation with the radio singer and orchestra leader in Atlantic City, was responsible for the change in plans.

"I know that I was just a little fool to even think of a divorce," Mrs. Vallee confessed. "Rudy never wanted one, although he was just perfect dear and told me that if I thought a divorce was best why that was what I should get. But I was wrong and we love each other more than ever now. We both admitted that last night."

Witness Missing; Fleischer Murder Charge Dismissed

Prisoner Turned Over to Federal Official to Face Dry Law Trial

Detroit, Mich.—(P)—Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, charging that "organized gangdom" was preventing the appearance of his one identifying witness, today asked and was granted the dismissal of a murder charge against Harry Fleischer, member of Detroit's Purple Gang.

Fleischer at once was turned over to federal officials to face an indictment of conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law.

The missing witness, Toy said, is Solly Levine whose testimony previously resulted in three men being convicted of the Collingwood apartment massacres in which three gangsters were slain. Fleischer, it was charged, was the fourth man involved.

"If organized gangdom," Toy said, "can 'buy' testimony, threats or death, prevent Levine or any witness from testifying in a court of justice, as appears to have been done in this case, then it becomes a matter of grave concern to the safety of the public."

The prosecutor promised the court that should Levine ever be found, Fleischer again would be brought to trial. Continuation of the case without Levine, he said, probably would result in a directed verdict of not guilty, and would jeopardize all future prosecution.

Wheat Setback Fails To Check Stock Gains

New York, N. Y.—(P)—Without help from sluggish wheat and cotton markets, stocks moved briskly upward this afternoon after a leisurely advance during the morning.

Net gains ran from $1 to $3 or more in representative leaders, with utility, motor and metal issues taking especially prominent parts in the advance. Steels were also strong.

The day's news included reports of increasing steel mill activity and word that electric power production, regarded as a sensitive barometer of business conditions, had shown a gain last week.

Wheat was fractionally lower at Chicago, with fluctuations in the New York Cotton market were narrow all day.

Trading in stocks became so active in the final dealings that the ticker fell several minutes behind just before the strong closing. Transactions approximated 4,000,000 shares.

Hold Woman In Murder of Kenosha Man

Purported Sweetheart of Tyllius Collapses at His Funeral

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Accused of Being Accessory to Felony in R. A. Wilson Slaying

Milwaukee, Wis.—(P)—John F. Tyrrel, handwriting expert here, today was comparing a sample of the handwriting of Josephine Ross, arrested yesterday in Kenosha, with that on one of the notes which Robert A. Wilson, Kenosha real estate man, was forced to sign shortly before he was slain on his farm near Lodi, Aug. 24.

Although he had not completed his investigation, Tyrrel said he was convinced the handwriting was the same. A report probably will be made to District Attorney Ross Bennett of Columbia-co tomorrow, he said.

Kenosha, Wis.—(P)—Josephine Ross, described by authorities as the sweetheart of the late Frank Tyllius, who committed suicide after confessing complicity in the slaying of Robert A. Wilson, Kenosha real estate dealer, was reported suffering from nervous shock at a hospital here today.

She collapsed, authorities said, while enroute to Portage last night in custody of Deputy Sheriff Arthur Johnson of Columbia-co, police Matron Beulah McNeil and Detective Arthur Kelly. She became hysterical and fainted several times soon after she was taken from a local cemetery where she witnessed the burial of Tyllius.

Before the funeral services which she had arranged were concluded, Miss Ross was arrested by Sheriff Steve Robinson on a warrant issued by Columbia-co authorities.

She was permitted to visit the cemetery under guard and immediately after the services she was hurried away. Several hours later she was brought to the hospital.

Although authorities declined to reveal the charge preferred against the woman, it was learned she was charged with being an accessory to a felony, a charge carrying a life sentence if she is convicted.

Ross Bennett, district attorney of Columbia-co, had ordered a search for a woman who was believed to have written one of two notes on which Wilson's slayers allegedly intended to collect more than $40,000 from his estate. No confirmation of the belief that Miss Ross was the suspect sought in connection with the writing of the notes was given by authorities, however.

Three Kenosha-co residents, Frank Infusino, William Covelli and Frank Consentine, are now held at Portage on charges of first degree murder for the slaying and another suspect is under arrest at Sacramento, Calif. Tyllius hanged himself in the jail at Wisconsin Dells Friday after implicating the others in his confession. Wilson was slain on a farm near Lodi, Wis., Aug. 24 and his body was found a week later.

Mellon Denies His Visit

Southampton, Eng.—(P)—United States Ambassador Mellon, returning from a visit to the United States, said today his trip to America had absolutely no significance as a matter of world finances.

"Nobody is thinking about war debts now—there is nothing to think about them," he said in answer to a question. "I have had no serious business to do in America. I went over because I felt that I needed a holiday after a strenuous year in London. I can assure you that my visit had no significance whatever from a financial standpoint."

Mr. Mellon said he did not meet Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, while Mr. Norman was in America, and added that all he knew about the banker's visit was what he had read in the papers.

COCHET BEATS VAN RYN

Forest Hills, N. Y.—(P)—Henri Cochet of France, world's ranking tennis star, defeated Johnny Van Ryn of Philadelphia, American Davis cup player 7-5, 6-3, 8-6, today to lead the field into the quarter-finals of the national championships at Westside Tennis club.

Missing Texas Boy and His Father in Kentucky

Louisville, Ky.—(P)—Hubert Johnson Jenkins, electrical engineer, brought his son home to Louisville after taking him from the boy's grandmother's home in Dallas, Texas. The fact that the father and son arrived yesterday became known today.

Jenkins' whose act in taking his son resulted in his being indicted on Dallas on kidnapping charges, left there Monday about noon in an automobile and sharing the wheel with his brother, William H. Jenkins, covered the 940 miles in 27 hours. They reached Louisville yesterday afternoon. He took the ten year old son to his home in the highlands on the outskirts of the city.

A friend of the family explained that since the child's legal guardian was dead the father had simply gone to Dallas and gotten his son.

Mexican Villages Are Submerged by Rising Rio Grande

Brownsville, Texas—(P)—The swollen Rio Grande—"The Big River of the North"—to the Spanish-speaking people who live on its southern bank—was bigger and wider than in years today as its eddying flood encircled half a dozen villages lying in its fertile lower valley.

Leaves had crumbled on the southern bank but on the American side the barriers held firm, though many thousands of acres not so protected were under water. Deep floodways on the American side helped carry off the water without damage to farms and citrus orchards inside the levees.

Hidalgo on the American side and several small villages on the Mexican side of the river were cut off by water. There was no danger at Hidalgo, but the Mexican villages of Capote, Sandoval, and several others were flooded.

Two Clintonville, Three New London Saloons May be Closed

Milwaukee, Wis.—(P)—A candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket and his partner, proprietors of a saloon in Kewaunee-co, were named today in federal warrants charging them with violation of the prohibition laws.

The men are Frank E. Prokosh, candidate for sheriff, and Lawrence Yonder, they are proprietors of "The Grove," on Highway 42 in the town of Pierce, which was raided yesterday. Leopold Kohlbeck, bartender was arrested and arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner John Watermolen, Green Bay.

Youth Admits He Shot Policeman in Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb.—(P)—Tom Hall, 20, confessed to police today that he shot Special Patrolman M. F. Marshall near the governor's mansion because he feared arrest. Wounded near the heart, Marshall was in a critical condition this morning several hours after the shooting.

Arrested in a pasture, Hall admitted not only the shooting but a drugstore robbery. He was released from the state reformatory more than a year ago after serving a sentence for highway robbery.

His arrest followed that of a friend who, officers said, was getting ammunition for him. Marshall was shot as he accosted a man at an alley near the executive mansion. He blew his whistle to attract the attention of Gov. Charles W. Bryan who called police and an ambulance.

Officer Held on Charge of Slaying Man in Jail Cell

Witness of Killing Hanged In Jail Cell but Death Is Laid to Brutality

Pekin, Ill.—(P)—C. O. Skinner, a Tazewell-co deputy sheriff, was in jail today awaiting arraignment on a warrant charging him with murder as the result of the death of Martin Virant, a witness to a slaying who was found hanging in his cell last Thursday.

The warrant charging Skinner with murder was sworn to by Coroner A. E. Allen of Tazewell-co and State's Attorney L. P. Dunkeberg. Virant, who was being held as a witness in the death of Louis Nelson which was reported to have resulted from a speakeasy brawl, testified at a coroner's inquest that he had been beaten by Skinner and other deputies who had sought to make him confess complicity in Nelson's death. Virant was found hanging in his cell a few hours after the inquest.

Coroner Allen was told by two Pekin doctors who viewed the body that death had not resulted from strangulation, as the hanging might indicate. Virant's body was said by them to have been covered with bruises.

The coroner retained a Chicago pathologist who concluded his inquiry yesterday, following which the warrant was obtained and served. The pathologist gave it as his opinion that Virant had not died of strangulation. Coroner Allen said the pathologist had reported to him that Virant's death had been caused by violence, probably inflicted during a beating.

Virant's body, the coroner said, was covered with bruises, and he had suffered a concussion of the brain, a broken rib, and other injuries.

Deputy Skinner was taken to the Pekin-co jail at Pekin because Tazewell-co officials said, "feeling was running high in Pekin."

Skinner has denied attacking Virant and claimed he knew nothing of the cause of death.

Bulgarian Cabinet Is Revamped by Premier

Sofia, Bulgaria—(P)—Premier Nicholas Muschanoff and his cabinet resigned today, but King Boris commissioned him to form a new government immediately.

M. Muschanoff submitted the same personnel except for the ministry of agriculture and public works in which Georgeghi Yordanoff was replaced by Virgile Dimoff, political secretary of the agrarian party.

M. Yordanoff previously had refused to resign voluntarily, despite the insistent demand of the agrarian leaders.

Poverty Drove Him To Slay His Wife, Doctor Tells Cops

Boston, Mass.—(P)—Dr. Townley Thordick, a French-trained 37-year-old graduate of Harvard Medical school who as a youth was considered a boy prodigy, was held without bail today for a hearing Sept. 15, on a charge of slaying his wife.

French, who told police he and his wife had been living on $7.50 a week, allowed to them by a medical society since she lost her job as an elevator operator several weeks ago, was described by his counsel as the victim of the "abject despair of poverty."

"I couldn't bear to see her unhappy," French told police.

The physician walked into a police station last night and calmly told a lieutenant he has shot his wife as she slept in the one room they occupied in a lodging house.

French, son of an author and lecturer, is a native of Hartford, Conn. He completed his medical course at the age of 20, but had not practiced for many years.

500 Farm Holiday Pickets Halt Caravan in Brief Clash

THREAT IS IGNORED Highway Blocked Despite Sheriff's Threat To Shoot

Sioux City, Iowa—(P)—Nearly 100 Plymouth-co deputy sheriffs, armed with shotguns, revolvers and clubs, were turned back by a crowd of more than 500 farm holiday strikers this morning when the officers made an attempt to escort 22 truckloads of livestock through the picket lines at James, Iowa, near here.

The cattle truckers, from northwestern Iowa, assembled at the Lemars ball park and asked Sheriff Ralph Rippey to provide an escort through the picket lines.

Rippey hastily assembled all available men, swore them in as deputies, armed them with firearms, pool cues, and baseball bats and started for James.

The deputies, in four trucks, preceded the caravan of 22 livestock trucks. When they reached James they were halted by the group of angry farmers who had placed heavy timbers on the highway. The farmers members of the National Farmers Holiday association, seek higher prices by trying to keep produce from markets.

Sheriff Rippey alighted from the first truck and ordered his men to remove the barriers, at the same time threatening to shoot anyone who interfered. Disregarding the threat, the strikers surrounded the deputies and forced them to climb back into their trucks.

The strikers then turned the trucks around and ordered the officers to return to Lemars. No shots were fired, but there were fist fights between strikers and deputies.

Deputies Injured
As the trucks proceeded back toward Lemars, the strikers hurled stones, bricks and other missiles and several of the deputies, struck on the head, fell to the floor of the rear truck. It was thought that they were not seriously injured.

After proceeding a short distance, Sheriff Rippey stopped his truck at the side of the road, climbed on top and, shouted to the farmers a request to refrain from violence and open defiance of the law.

In reply, the strikers said they intended to remain peaceful as long as no pickets were made to run the blockade.

The pickets tried to overturn one truck, but failed in that attempt. As far as could be learned, the farmers carried no firearms.

Orders Retreat
After shouting at the farmers that "they apparently did not want to have the laws enforced," Rippey ordered his men to return to Lemars, and then himself went to the truck caravan which was waiting a mile beyond James on Highway 75.

Previously an airplane flew over the picket lines to ascertain the number of pickets in the crowd. There was no shooting in the episode.

"You selected me to office the first of the year to enforce the laws," Sheriff Rippey shouted. "Now you apparently don't want the laws enforced. You don't have a leader to whom to listen about law enforcement."

There were boos and catcalls as he talked.

Between Lemars and Leeds, a suburb of Sioux City, the crowd of pickets was variously estimated at between 400 and 1,000.

Sheriff John A. Davenport of Woodbury-co, had sent a squad of deputies to the Woodbury-Plymouth-co line to guard trucks after they had crossed the boundary. James is just over the line.

Mayor McKee Slashes Pay Of Officials

Cuts Own Salary by $15,000 and Sets $12,000 Maximum for Others

New York — (P)—Joseph McKee, mayor for less than a week, pulled tight today the purse strings of "six years of spending," as he called it, slicing $15,000 a year from his own $40,000 salary and setting a $12,000 a year maximum for other offices under his control.

By these salary slashes and allied economies he said an annual saving of $20,000 a year would be effected.

City employees receiving $2,000 a year or less are to be protected in their present incomes, he said.

In some cases the pay cut amounts to more than 50 per cent. That is true of the corporation counsel and superintendent of schools, each of whom now receives $25,000 a year. Dr. William Schroeder, Jr., chairman of the sanitation commission and personal physician to former Mayor Walker, will be reduced to $12,000 from his present $22,500.

The heads of the police and fire departments will be reduced $8,000 a year to get within the $12,000-a-year maximum.

Fifty city magistrates now receiving $12,000 may be cut to $10,000 the mayor said. The salary of the chief magistrate, $15,000, will be cut $3,000.

The city payroll was found to have increased 48 per cent since 1926. General pay increases have been effective since September, 1930. The bill providing for the increases was signed by Mayor Walker on the first day of his second term—the term from which he unexpectedly resigned last week.

McKee as mayor has full power both as to the tenure of office and the salaries of all city officials, and he has been appointed by him, and his action does not require the approval of any other city agency.

The mayor also ordered a systematic census by the city to determine the number of destitute unemployed in the city and the percentage of them who are permanent residents.

"We are spending millions of dollars a month on relief," he said, "yet never have there been a complete analysis of the situation."

The mayor's voluntary reduction in his own salary leaves him lower paid than at least one other official. Comptroller Charles W. Berry, an elected officer, receives $35,000 a year.

Obtains Loans
McKee took two other steps toward strengthening the city's financial position. With Comptroller Berry he made a flying trip to Wall-st. and there, in less than 30 minutes, he arranged a loan of between 10 and 15 million dollars at the lowest rate of interest paid by the city since last November. On his assurance that he intended to make drastic cuts in expenses, the bankers gave him an interest rate of 5 1/2 per cent, a half per cent less than a previous rate.

At a meeting of the board of estimate he led a move which resulted in the ending of a virtual printing monopoly by insisting that the low bidder be given the contract on the printing of election ballots. The union board sought to award the contract to the high bidder. The saving amounted to $50,000.

All of the salary cuts ordered by the mayor were in offices for which he has the power of appointment and removal for cause. He said there were certain departments, such as the department of education, in which salaries were mandatory to a large extent, and these could not be altered by him.

The reduction of his own salary he made effective at once and ordered the others to begin on Oct. 1. A Communist committee which called to ask if the mayor would meet a committee on unemployment Saturday was told he would be glad to discuss the problem with the committee.

Comptroller Berry indicated today that although his salary cannot be reduced by the mayor he will cut it himself.

"The chances are," he said, "that the comptroller will do to his salary whatever the mayor does to his."

Before the board of estimate voted themselves salary increases in 1929 the mayor and the comptroller each received $25,000. The mayor was voted an increase of $15,000 and the comptroller an increase of $10,000.

READJUSTMENT AND RECOVERY

It has been suggested from Democratic headquarters that the recent rise in prices reflects a joyous anticipation of Governor Roosevelt's election, and from Republican circles we are asked to believe that President Hoover is, with superb strategy, directing a victorious war against the depression. It would be a painful commentary upon our capacity to learn wisdom from experience if we allowed ourselves to entertain such naive notions of the course of events. Were they seriously believed, we should be founding hopes of recovery upon political magic rather than upon a realistic view of what has occurred and of what still remains to be done.

The rise in prices has followed closely upon a number of events which in their total effect appear to have arrested the forces of deflation. No one, I think, can say which of these events is the most important, and in attempting to name them I do not pretend to be exhaustive. But certainly the following are among the more significant developments which preceded and contributed to the renewal of confidence:

In the United States the gold standard and the general credit structure have been successfully defended. This was done by the defeat of the corpus and of other inflationary legislative proposals, by the demonstration in favor of a balanced budget, and by the action of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Reserve System in protecting the banks against the consequences of hoarding and the flight from the dollar. The combined effect of all these measures was to assure the world that the dollar was a secure medium in which to invest and even to speculate. For this result, the President, Secretary Mills and Governor Meyer are entitled to great credit.

But there were equally important events elsewhere. Foremost among them must be numbered the astounding success of the British conversion loan, by means of which the British Government radically reduced the interest on a great part of its national debt and thus not only saved money for the taxpayer but in the long run for all producers who are financed through the London money market. By this measure one of the principal costs of industry, the cost of new capital, has been reduced.

No less important was the virtual abolition of reparations at the Lausanne conference. As a result, one of the most depressing elements in the world economy, the effort of Germany to balance her payments, has been removed. The whole world has assumed, regardless of what politicians say now, that the war debts to America will be dealt with no less conclusively. As the combined effect of debt payments and reparations was profoundly deflationary in that the debtor nations could pay only by giving up gold or dumping goods, the belief that this system is ended has given enormous relief.

These three events are the chief contributions by governments. An even greater contribution has been the sacrifice by millions of individuals in liquidating the boom and in readjusting their affairs.

It is surely not unimportant, for example, that what was probably the low point in the depression should also have been the point where almost disappeared the "favorable" balance of trade of the two chief creditor powers—that is to say, of France and the United States. One of the great delusions of recent years has been the belief that we could be a creditor of the world and yet sell much more than we bought. During the depression that delusion has gradually been sweated away. By the loss of most of our export trade in manufactures we are once again in a workable relationship with the rest of the world. The effort of our customers and debtors to pay what they had borrowed and bought added to what they owed on the war debts, was profoundly deflationary. The situation has been corrected by the rough-and-ready method of default on some of the debt and of reducing our export balance drastically. It has been expensive, and the domestic consequences will be with us for a long time, but from the point of view of the world economy it has been effective.

Within this country and in others there has been taking place a stupendous readjustment through failures and bankruptcies, through the curtailment of production, the cutting of wages and salaries, through economies and reorganization. The result is that a large number of producers are now in a position to make money at lower prices and on smaller volume than they needed before they went through the deflation. At the same time there is an accumulated demand for goods that have to be replaced, there has been a corresponding fall in prices of consumers' goods and, owing to the long suspension of activity, there is in most industries no impossible glut of goods.

Thus with the removal of the great deflationary forces centering in the threat to the American dollar, in reparations and war debts, in the unbalanced creditor position of the United States and France, and in the exaggerated surpluses, the effects of the readjustment which has been taking place among the producers can begin to be felt. The gap between prices and costs, which was becoming wider as the deflation proceeded, is closing up as the deflation is arrested. The gap is closing because costs have been reduced and because the pressure on prices has been relieved. That there are still vast maladjustments, particularly in the railroads and in real estate, is evident. But it is reasonable to suppose that the gap between costs and prices is now small enough in a large area to permit the resumption of some considerable amount of profitable business.

The real question which now presents itself is whether our government will devote its energies to holding conferences, appointing committees and issuing proclamations about that measure of recovery which events themselves are bringing about or whether it will turn its attention to those great problems within its own control which, unless they are solved, will make the recovery temporary and insufficient.

Reich Ultimatum Asking Equality Is Made Public

Foreign Minister Publishes Text of Statement To France

Berlin — (P)—A German ultimatum, announcing that she will quit the world disarmament conference unless the powers agree to grant her equality in armaments, was before the world today.

From a clear sky last night Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath published the text of the government's ultimatum to France, containing its armaments equality demands. The document was handed to the French ambassador more than a week ago.

The note also suggested "confidential talks between the French and German governments." Its publication followed shortly and suddenly a statement made at Koenigsberg by Defense Minister General Kurt von Schleicher who said if Germany is not granted arms equality she will arm anyway.

The defense minister, recognized as a power behind the Von Papen cabinet, added that he meant what he said.

Foreign Minister Von Neurath published the text of the note to France to dispose of erroneous impression which had got abroad and to refute charges that Germany was planning to arm to the pre-war standard.

The aide memoir was intended to be confidential, he said, but France had seen fit to communicate it to other nations. It contained nothing surprising as the text would show, he said, and there was no intent to throw obstacles in the path of a disarmament treaty among nations.

"It is useless to tell us to have patience and wait for other powers to disarm in the course of time," he said, "and that equality will duly come along, too. We have been waiting more than ten years to get our claims recognized."

Protests Discrimination
"The disarmament conference has come to the point where a declaration about equality can no longer be shelved. Germany can no longer be expected to submit to discrimination which is irreconcilable with the honor and security of the nation."

Summarized, the nine points of the aide memoir propose:

1. Confidential talks between Germany and France;
2. Germany could not agree to the resolution with which the arms conference closed on July 23 promising a later agreement for arms reductions because it left open the question of whether it was also applicable to Germany;
3. Equality as the fundamental point;
4. Germany always has urged that other powers disarm to Germany's status under the Versailles treaty, but there seems no prospect of this—Germany has the same right to security as the others;
5. and 6. The application of any discriminatory provisions to Germany would mean that she would continue to be a second class nation;
7. All categories of arms not generally forbidden, must also be permitted to Germany and she must be given special considerations, especially a special short service militia for the protection of her frontiers;
8. The French premier has emphasized the need of security for France. Germany is willing to discuss any projects serving the end of security for everybody;
9. Germany begs France to be assured of the loyal and moderate character of her intentions but adds that the question of equality can no longer be left open.

Comment By Press
Foreign Minister Von Neurath's threat was featured today in the section of the German morning press which supports the Von Papen regime.

"It is already certain today," the foreign minister said in an interview, "that it is possible for Germany to participate in further deliberations at the disarmament conference before the question of Germany's equality has been clarified in principle. We have offered for debate the question of our equality, not our armament."

The Socialist newspaper Vorwaerts, however, called attention to the fact that Italy, which alone thus far has announced its support of Germany's position, has insisted that the question be settled at Geneva.

"Isn't it somewhat imprudent," Vorwaerts asked, "to make such a threat when even Italy, of whose support so much is expected here, unequivocally contravenes the threat to stay away from the disarmament conference?"

Hopes of the Nazis and Centrists that a coalition might be effected to unseat the Von Papen Regime were given a severe jolt last night by a speech by Hermann Goerring, Nazi president of the Reichstag.

"Negotiating with the centrists would be a sin against the Holy Ghost," Goerring, who is one of Adolf Hitler's chief lieutenants, said. "All we are doing is to chat with them. The Nazis do not fear a new dissolution of the Reichstag."

"Just as we have removed the bourgeois wishy-washies and defeated Social Democracy, so also will we chase the reactionaries to the devil."

The government was reported to be determined to dissolve the Reichstag, however, before either a motion of non-confidence or a motion to rescind the emergency decrees can be voted upon. The Reichstag agenda for Monday contains a single point—a government declaration.

SIR GILBERT PARKER

Famous British Novelist Dies at His London Home

Sir Gilbert Parker, Author Of Many Best Sellers, Succumbs

London — (P)—Sir Gilbert Parker, noted British novelist and for ten years a member of the famous motion picture writers' colony at Los Angeles, died here of a heart attack last night, aged 69.

For more than 30 years his name figured from time to time among the best sellers and in the United States he was best known, perhaps for his novel, "The Right of Way," the motion picture production of which he also arranged.

His first literary sensation was "The Seats of the Mighty" which sold more than 100,000 copies in 1896. He was born in Camden East, Ont., Nov. 23, 1862.

Two years ago he was still enthusiastic over plans for continued writing, of which he could visualize no end. He had a year's work on his memoirs, he said, and other plots in his head.

He made frequent visits to Ontario, his native neighborhood, and some years ago purchased a home in Belleville, Ont., where his parents and sister resided many years.

Camden East, where he was born, is a few miles north of Napanee, in the public school of which he received his early education. He taught school at Holloway, a few miles north of Belleville for many years and afterwards was attached to the staff of the school for the deaf.

After his ordination to holy orders he was curate at Trenton, Ont. Later he decided to attend Trinity college at Toronto and paid his way with fees from elocution instruction.

Sir Gilbert's wife, who died in 1925, is buried in Belleville cemetery. Surviving Sir Gilbert are a sister, Mrs. Beaumont Jarvis, Toronto, and two brothers, Harry of St. Paul, Ont., and Arthur whose whereabouts are unknown here.

Filipino Chiefs Assail U. S. Bill

Only One of Nine Witnesses Defends Present Independence Measure

Manila, P. I. — (P)—Filipino leaders attacked the Haves-Cutting Philippine independence bill today at the second of a series of hearings intended to guide the insular legislature's stand on that measure.

The bill, which would grant the island's independence after minimum of 15 years, is pending before the United States senate and nine witnesses heard, only one—Sulpicio Ferrero, labor leader at Cavite where the Manila Bay Naval base is located—was supported the measure.

Dr. Felix de Leon, member of a wealthy family of planters of Bulacan, ridiculed the manner in which he said Filipinos have paid obedience to American officials. Governor General Theodore Roosevelt, he said, "with two words in Tagalog Meaning 'how many times have you?' concerns the Filipinos like Napoleon conquered Europe, but more quickly."

De Leon, uncle of the wife of Speaker Manuel Roxas who heads the Philippine independence mission now in the United States, declared the 1926 organic Jones act stated "stable government was the only prerequisite of independence. new conditions are imposed. May be more will be when these are completed with."

Other critics of the bill at today's hearing were Bienvenido de la Paz, former newspaper editor, and Heremengildo Reyes, Manila merchant.

Jean Harlow's Brief Life Has Seen Much of Tragedy

BY DAN THOMAS

Hollywood—The famous platinum tresses of Jean Harlow—the admiration of men and the envy of women wherever movies are shown—repose today on a head bowed with grief for, at an age when many other girls are leaving college, a tragic romance has crossed her all-too-eventful young life for the second time.

The story, briefly, is this: At 16 she was a bride; at 17 she was a divorcee; at 21 she was a bride again and now, only a few weeks later, she is a widow—left bereft by a brilliant, but moody, movie-director husband twice her age, who placed a pistol to his temple and pulled the trigger after writing her a farewell note in which he assured her of his great love for her.

What does the future hold in store for this most gorgeous of all movie blondes whose private life has been scarcely less colorful than her swift rise to stardom on the silver screen? Only the future can answer that, though the past may give a grim hint of a star-crossed unhappiness and tragedy.

The suicide of Paul Bern, her direct-husband, in their idyllic "honeymoon" in the Hollywood canyon was only another chapter in the life of the celebrated young actress.

Singularly enough, it had all the elements of a stark drama of the films which Bern, with his ingenuity as a director, could have plotted and in which Jean Harlow, as an actress, could have played the leading role.

Jean Harlow had known love before, though it is doubtful if she had ever known happiness for—as developments often prove—these two elements are not always mirrored by each other.

As a child in Kansas City, she never seemed to "get on" with the other little girls in her neighborhood. They liked dolls and those other things that little girls usually play with; Jean didn't. She stored her dolls away as fast as they were given her and sought other pleasures.

It was the same when she was attending, at 15, an exclusive school for girls near Chicago. The other girls liked to dance; Jean didn't dance, so she sat out her dances. The other girls liked "dates" with the boys; Jean didn't care much about dates with the boys.

And then, when she was 16, a handsome 22-year-old Chicago youth, who had just inherited his father's fortune, came into her life. He was Charles F. McGrew, whom the younger set knew more affectionately as "Chick".

At last, this 16-year-old girl who seemed to have never known love apparently believed she had found it. At any rate, Jean and "Chick" McGrew were married. Though she may have found love, she missed happiness . . . for not long after the romance of the two youngsters ended on the rocks of separation.

Shortly after their marriage in September, 1927, Jean and her rich young husband moved to Beverly Hills. For a time, they played gaily in Hollywood's social whirlpool where the young wife met many famous movie stars. But Jean—the little girl who didn't like dolls, who didn't dance and who didn't care for dates with the boys—soon found that her marital happiness was merely a mirage. She and "Chick" separated, a little later she filed suit for divorce and got it.

Jean went to live with her mother and her new stepfather Mr. and Mrs. Marino Bello, who also had moved to Beverly Hills. Her mother had divorced Jean's father, a Kansas City physician, and married Bello. Her maiden name had been Jean Harlow and her first husband had been Dr. Carpenter. Jean had been born Harlean Carpenter, but when she entered the movies she dropped this name and adopted her mother's maiden name. Though Jean did not come to Hollywood with any intention of entering the movies, it was only natural that she should drift into it. She was young, she was good-looking, she had friends among the movie people—and what girl does not aspire to become a movie star or long for the chance?

And so, as she began in a small way and her success mounted, she came under the observation of Paul Bern, whose success was already accomplished. Doubtless, they found a lot in common—this girl whose happiness had been clouded by an unsuccessful marriage at the age of 16 and the brilliant, but moody, 41-year-old director who had never had a love affair himself but seemed to get his greatest happiness out of befriending those who were unhappy in life.

So, last July, the curtain rose on the romance of Jean Harlow and Paul Bern and disclosed a marriage to astonished Hollywood, which had little dreamed that the two were considering such a step.

Now the final curtain has descended, tragedy replacing happiness to make a sinister climax. Paul Bern and Jean Harlow play their own leading roles in this grim drama of life and love and death—a drama torn directly from their own lives and far more gripping than any in which she ever starred or he ever directed.

Sheriff in Court Over Failure to Serve Execution

Ordered to Show Cause Why He Should Not be Held in Contempt of Court

Sheriff John Lappen will appear before Judge John J. Gregory in Circuit court at Milwaukee Saturday to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court because of his failure to serve an execution on the Bear Creek Mercantile company. The order to show cause was secured by attorneys for Fred T. Goll and Sons, Milwaukee. It is charged the firm secured an execution against the Bear Creek firm and that this was sent to the sheriff on April 6 and that he returned the execution without service on July 7. Since that time the Bear Creek firm has gone out of business and it is the contention of the plaintiff that the sheriff is personally liable because of his failure to execute the judgment.

Lappen explained this morning that when he received the execution he investigated the Bear Creek firm and found that all of its assets were tied up under a chattel mortgage and that there was nothing on which to levy. He explained he held the execution for some time, thinking the directors of the firm might find some way to satisfy it. When they didn't, he said, the execution was returned. Lappen was summoned to Milwaukee last Saturday and the case was continued for a week.

Train Children at Winneconne Home

24 Now Housed in Institution, Superintendent Declares

The care of homeless children at the Wisconsin Children's Country Home at Winneconne was discussed by J. A. McAfee, superintendent of the home, at the meeting of Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. There are 24 children in the home, which has been in operation for the past four years.

Stating that the children at the home get better training than many a child in a modern home, with parents to care for them, Mr. McAfee explained that the boys and girls at the country home learn to do housework, sew, garden and farm. Character building is the nucleus of the training at the home, where Mr. and Mrs. McAfee are known as Mother and Dad, the housemother as aunt, and the farm superintendent as Uncle. The children are housed in three cottages rather than dormitories, and attend the public schools at the expense of the county from which they came.

Mr. McAfee spoke of the 4,000 homeless children in the state, of the overcrowded conditions of all state institutions, particularly those at Sparta and Chippewa Falls, and of the large percentage of boys and girls who are sent to industrial schools just because no one takes an interest in them. He told the Rotarians of the great field that exists for helping the homeless child, and invited them to visit the country home on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Oshkosh Rotary club at the country home.

F. J. Harwood and A. G. Wake-man are on the board of trustees of the institution.

Lower Prices Bring Out Many More Golfers

Reduced prices resulted in an increase in the use of the Municipal golf course over the weekend, according to Ed Harwood, superintendent of the course. All golfers expressed appreciation of the park board's immediate action on their petition for lower rates.

The course was used by 607 players over the weekend, the largest three-day total of the summer. The amount taken in was $325. On Sept. 1, 1932, the petition for the request of scores of golfers, cut the price of playing from 50 to 40 cents for 18 holes and from 35 to 25 cents for nine holes.

Testimony Taken In Workers' Cases

Appleton Man Seeks Compensation for Injury To Eyeball

The case of Walter Henning, 1010 N. Richmond-st., against the C. R. Meyer and Sons company, involving impairment of sight, was heard before L. B. Reille, examiner for the Wisconsin Industrial commission, this morning. Mr. Henning's eyeball was cut on June 20, 1931, when a wire struck him in the eye as he was working on the Kaukauna bridge.

Testimony in one other case, Oscar Sparby, Menasha, against the Equitable Reserve association, was taken, and the case of Richard Fox, route 1, Forest Junction against the Lux Construction company, West Allis, was settled. Mr. Sparby is asking damages for a hand infection received while working in cement, and Mr. Fox sought compensation for disability which he contends resulted from heat exhaustion which was followed by pneumonia.

Five cases were heard Tuesday afternoon. Peter Smet, route 3, Kaukauna, claimed damages for the loss of eyesight which he maintained followed an accident in September, 1928, when he was struck by a piece of spars. The case of Robert Herskorn, Appleton, against the Kimberly Clark corporation, involved a fractured vertebra and a kidney injury, and that of Walter J. Flater, Manawa, against Charles J. Deckert, Manawa, a fractured right hip, received when a scaffold collapsed on July 29, 1930.

John Stein, 1220 N. Co-Op Houses for Needy Students

University Seeks to Counteract Anticipated Enrollment Drop

Madison.—In an effort to counteract the anticipated decline in enrollment, the University of Wisconsin this fall will increase the number of cooperative houses for needy students.

Cooperative houses for women have been operated on the campus for several years but this year the university opened two houses for men. They will accommodate 50 students who will share the actual cost of operation.

The men students, like the women living in cooperative houses, will care for their own rooms, keep the house clean, and share in the work of waiting on table, stoking the furnace and other tasks. Although a trained manager and cook will be hired, the university expects to keep the room and board expenses per capita to a dollar a day.

The home of the late Dr. Stephen M. Babcock was turned into a cooperative rooming house for needy farm boys who attended the university last year. Thirty Wisconsin farm boys have already applied for membership in the cooperative enterprise for the coming academic year.

J. D. Phillips, university business manager, today said figures based on a survey of the expenditures of 400 students here last year indicated that the average expense for all items, including clothing and food, is from $400 to $450 for each school year. This amount applies to students not living in cooperative houses. Mr. Phillips said the incidental fees are lower than at any other university in the middle west.

Economies in the university owned dormitories will save students $51,000 as compared with the cost last year, Mr. Phillips said.

Enter Exhibits At Shawano Fair

Large Crowds Expected There Today, Thursday and Friday

By W. F. Winsey

Shawano.—Exhibitors filled the building of the Shawano-co fair to capacity Tuesday, with the choice products of the county and in some cases tents were set up to house the overflow. Experienced superintendents and scores of other workers converted the day's confusion into order before nightfall. The entire big show was ready at night for the entertainment of record-breaking crowds Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The superintendents have checked up on the number of entries but one declared that his building was packed as never before. In the horse barn are 35 animals, according to Superintendent F. C. Schultz; in the cattle barn and an overflow tent, 195 animals; in the calf club barn, 50 animals; in the hog pens 160; and in the sheep pens, 50 animals, according to Superintendent Albert Klebesadel. In the poultry building, 72 coops are filled. Superintendent Edwin Gieseler, Superintendent G. R. Rousseau could use a third more room in the farm products building. In the woman's building, Mrs. A. M. Andrews, superintendent of household manufacture, Mrs. John Gordon, superintendent of culinary, and Mrs. Otto P. Olson, superintendent of fine arts are highly pleased with an increase of exhibits in their departments.

These great collections of the best products of the farms and homes of Shawano county, coupled with grandstand program, and midway amusements was bewildering visitors Wednesday, who wish to cover the big show in three days' time.

Decision in the matter is to be made at another committee meeting this afternoon.

Circulation at Library Heavy

Expect Total to Overreach Last Year's Mark, Says Miss Day

The summer circulation at the Appleton public library has been so heavy that despite the installation of the new charging system this year's circulation figures probably will overreach those of last year by the time the year is ended, Miss Florence Day, librarian, reported to the library board at its monthly meeting Tuesday. The inauguration of the new system brought a marked decrease in circulation during the first few months of the year, but the rush of the summer months will more than offset this, she reported.

During August 14,418 books were loaned by the library. This number included 11,972 fiction volumes, 2,507 non-fiction, 144 unbound periodicals, and 95 foreign books. Five books were received as gifts. With the addition of 112 new volumes, and the withdrawal of 51, the number of volumes on the library shelves increased from 36,314 at the beginning of the month to 36,375 at the end. There were 217 new registrations, and 117 cancellations, bringing the total number of borrowers up to 12,007 at the end of August. Of these 878 live outside of the city, and six outside of the county.

Tannery Concern May Move Due to Taxation Burden

Sheboygan Officials and Civic Leaders Try to Save Plant for City

Sheboygan.—Municipal authorities and civic leaders today were arranging negotiations in an effort to save the plant of the Badger State Tanning company, officials of which revealed yesterday they were considering suspension of operations in Wisconsin to escape high taxes.

The plant at present is giving full time employment to 480 men and in periods of greater business activity several hundred more are on the payroll.

A statement by Marcus Weimar, Chicago, president of the company, indicated that the entire tax load in Sheboygan—local as well as state—have become irksome to the company. Another official said it costs about a cent and a half more to produce a pound of leather in Wisconsin than in several other states, and that under such handicap the Wisconsin plant finds competition difficult to meet.

"I understand there is revision of the budget under way in Sheboygan, and if our taxes drop so that we can meet our competitors we certainly will remain in Sheboygan," Weimar said. "Under present conditions we, like other concerns, are centralizing production and consolidating operations as much as possible. We have been forced to dismantle some plants because of taxation difficulties, and move to other localities."

"Actually state taxes are a part of the picture, but they are something which Sheboygan alone cannot control. The community can co-operate on local taxes, however, and such cooperation undoubtedly would be sufficient to keep our plant in Wisconsin. I say this without intent of implying a threat, but merely in response to an inquiry as to what the facts are."

The Sheboygan city tax rate is $29. The city council will hold a number of meetings to pare the budget by reducing salaries and eliminating certain activities. Mayor Otto Geussenhainer and John F. Enz, president of the chamber of commerce, will meet tannery officials.

A jury in municipal court yesterday afternoon found Ray Flanagan, route 2, Appleton, not guilty of drunken driving. The case was tried before Judge Theodore Berg. Residents called the police, and Lieutenant Herbert Kapp and Officer Carl Radtke arrested Flanagan. Next day he pleaded not guilty of drunken driving. He has been at liberty under bonds of $100.

Rubin Hits Unfair Burdens Imposed on Wisconsin Industry

(By the Associated Press)

William B. Rubin, Democratic candidate for governor, said in a campaign speech at Shirley, Brown-co, at noon today that the governor is directly responsible for the removal of large industrial plants to other states.

Rubin said that such removals are a distinct loss to the people of Wisconsin, but another serious loss is the decision of other factory owners leaving their plants here to carry out all expansions in other states.

"We find the Chevrolet and Fisher body plants of Janesville announcing plans for removal because of high taxes," Rubin said. "The Parker Pen company has reduced operations in Wisconsin to a minimum. The Badger State Tanning company of Sheboygan is planning to move to Michigan, and all because of exorbitant taxes that industrialists of Wisconsin are forced to carry through the 'soak the rich' policy of the administration."

"If elected governor, I promise industrialists will not be burdened with taxes that industrialists of other states are not likewise paying. We must permit industries of the state to meet competition of other states."

Rubin will speak tomorrow at Fremont, Weyauwega, New London, Bear Creek, Clintonville, Embarrass and Shawano.

Leviton Scores G. O. P. Stalwarts

Claims Opponents Falsified Facts in Capital City Bank Case

Stalwart Republicans were scored by Sol Leviton, candidate for reelection as state treasurer, for their alleged falsification of the Capital City bank case facts, in an address before more than 100 persons at a political rally at Little Chute last night. Anton Jansen, village president and secretary of the Outagamie Farmer-Labor and Progressive league, which sponsored the meeting, presided.

Leviton also scored his opponents for falsifying the cost of operation of his office was excessive. He quoted figures to show how economically his office was being run. As an illustration he pointed out that only five girls are employed in the work of collecting gasoline taxes and that over $17,000,000 has been collected.

Henry A. Huber, candidate for reelection as lieutenant governor, also was scheduled to speak, but because of illness he was unable to appear. Samuel Sigman, candidate for district attorney, substituted for him. He urged election of the progressive ticket: William Bay, Kaukauna, candidate for reelection as assemblyman from the second district, and Sheriff John Lappen, candidate for county treasurer, also gave brief talks.

Scheurle, Madisen Go To Legion Convention

Armin B. Scheurle, a delegate of Oney Johnston post of the American legion and Erik L. Madisen, editor of the Badger Legionaire, will leave tomorrow afternoon for the national convention of the American legion at Portland, Oregon. Mrs. Harold Miller, delegate from the legion auxiliary, left yesterday. Dates of the convention are Sept. 12 to 15.

Among the many important issues that probably will be acted upon at the convention is the question of the payment of adequate compensation certificates. Other matters will be the attitude toward the administration for the use of the army in ejecting the ex-service men from Washington, and the stand of the legion on the matter of reduction of benefits of disabled veterans and their dependents.

What Goes Out Must Come Back, Bachman Believes

(By the Associated Press)

What goes up must come down is good logic, Frank Bachman agrees, but stronger logic is his philosophy that "what goes out must come back." Bachman, who presides over the shovels and the chisels, the brooms and the saws, in the stockroom of the street department, knows where every spade, piece of rope, every axe is every minute of the day. Whether an employee wants a little piece of rope or a pair of rubber boots, he has to account for it with the boss of the stockroom, who keeps tab on the stock by means of a board full of little white numbered discs. When So-and-so, who goes by No. 28, calls for a hatchet, the disc with his number, comes off its original peg and is hung on the hatchet peg, and stays there until No. 28 brings back the hatchet.

There are discs for clippers, shovels, coats, scrapers, axes, saws, spades, chisels, rubber boots, brooms, paint brushes, hatchets, crowbars, crosscuts, torches, sledges, lines, rakes, picks, grubs, forks, hammers and a dozen other pieces of street equipment.

Mr. Bachman also knows how much oil and gas is used by every truck in the place, how many hours each man works on certain jobs, and how many street signs, tires, etc., there are in the storeroom.

Gets Supply of Blanks For Hunting Reports. A supply of blanks for hunters to file with the county clerk the amount of game they bag this season, has been received at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Mr. Hantschel started issuing hunting licenses last week but he did not receive the census blanks and those hunters who received licenses and didn't get blanks can secure them by calling at Mr. Hantschel's office. Hunters are required, under state law, to file these blanks or they cannot get licenses next season.

New Trial Denied For Van Gompel

Man Found Guilty of Rape Is Taken to State Reformatory

Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this week filed a verdict denying a new trial for Willard Van Gompel, town of Kaukauna, who was found guilty by a jury last November of rape. Following the denial for a new trial Van Gompel was taken to the state reformatory at Green Bay to start serving a sentence of one year, imposed by the court following the trial last November.

Van Gompel, with Lester Mitchell, Appleton, was arrested on complaint of two girls who charged the men took them home from a dance in the town of Oshkosh and attacked them. The pair were found guilty at separate trials. Appeals were filed in both cases, but they were later dismissed by the supreme court for lack of prosecution. At the time of dismissal of the appeals Mitchell was taken to Green Bay, but Van Gompel's attorneys filed another motion for a new trial.

Strike to be Considered at Farmers' Meet

W. M. Singler, County Director, Calls Conference At Pierce Park Monday

A mass meeting of Outagamie-co farmers will be held at 8 o'clock next Monday evening at Pierce park when plans for organizing the county unit of the Farmers' National Holiday association will be made, according to W. M. Singler, Appleton, who was appointed director for the county. Mr. Singler, who also is president of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, pointed out that all farmers, whether they are members of the milk pool or some other farm cooperative, or whether they do not belong to any cooperative, are urged to attend the meeting. He said that an effort also is being made to have business men and civic leaders from the towns and village present.

Mr. Singler was appointed director for Outagamie-co at the mass meeting last Saturday at Marshfield, when some 6,000 Badger farmers voted to join the holiday association. They will not strike immediately, however, as the state is to be thoroughly organized before any action is taken.

An effort is being made to have E. E. Kennedy, of Kankakee, Ill., secretary of the national association, come here to explain the holiday movement. Mr. Singler said that representatives of all farm and city organizations also would be given an opportunity to air their views.

Men who are assisting Mr. Singler with arrangements for the meeting are: Harvey Graupman, town of Black Creek; Charles Rolf, town of Greenville; Orville Johnson, town of Mafie; Arthur Elamson, town of Grand Chute; Robert Schorff, town of Ellington; and Ernest Springstroh, town of Freedom.

Mr. Singler said that the mass meeting will be held even in case of rain. In this event it will be held in the pavilion.

Pay Tribute to Air Mail Fliers

Wooden Cross in Chicago To Honor Memory of Men Who Lost Lives

Chicago (AP)—A wooden cross was selected for erection Tuesday in Grant park in memory of the men who blazed the trail when the United States mail service winged its way westward and the pilots who died following that trail.

The spot picked for the cross was the place where on Sept. 6, 1918, the wheels of the first mail plane to fly here from New York made its landing. Later the Chicago Historical society will place a permanent marker on the site. Memorial exercises in honor of Max Miller and Eddie Garner, who piloted this trail-blazing plane, and all the aviators who lost their lives in the conquest of a continent, were in charge of Captain E. B. Lipner "father" of the nation's air mail service.

The flight of Miller and Gardner from the eastern seaboard attracted little attention at the time. The world was then in progress. The flight inaugurated air mail service between the nation's two largest cities, now points on the mail aerial artery of the nation, over which is carried 45 per cent of the governments' air mail.

Those early days—and later nights—of flying over the New York-Chicago-Salt Lake City-San Francisco route were beset with hazards, now largely eliminated through better ships, better lighted airways and better landing fields.

Among the men who are still flying the paths they traveled a decade ago are W. D. Williams, between New York and Chicago; Jack Knights, Chicago and Omaha; E. Hamilton Lee, Omaha and Cheyenne; Harold Lewis, Salt Lake City service. and Cheyenne, and Harry Hucking, Salt Lake City and Oakland, Calif. All have flown over a million miles in the United States air mail service.

State Employees' Cuts in Salary Below Average

Workers of Local Governmental Units Suffered Most

Madison — Employees of the state of Wisconsin are more fortunately situated than are the employees of local units of government or those employed in business and industry, as they have not received a permanent salary or wage cut.

This is brought out in a statement issued by the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance which states that "complete data on the salary remissions of various state boards and commissions is not available." The statement does show, however, that employees of some of the state departments have made remissions or waivers which apply only to salaries for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1933.

The release by the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance says: "Letters received from a majority of the counties and cities of the state indicate that salary and wage cuts, most of them permanent or 'until the emergency passes', range from 5 per cent to 25 per cent."

"Industry and business in the state are operating with greatly reduced personnel, and many of those who have been retained have had their pay cut as much as 25 per cent. In addition, many employees are working part time on this reduced wage scale."

"Information obtained from various state offices indicates that there has been no fixed policy followed in reducing state employees' salaries. A tabulation covering this subject is planned by the Bureau of Personnel, but so far no definite information from any one source is available as to salary waivers of all state departments."

Fix Salary Waivers

The Alliance states that, "the Board of Health, Budget Bureau and Civil Service Commission have arranged salary waivers ranging from 2 per cent to 10 per cent based on the total yearly salary received. Salary waivers in the Board of Control and the Industrial Commission are not as large as in some other departments, the former remitting 4 per cent after deducting an exemption from the total salary of $500.00 and the latter a remission of from 2 per cent to 6 per cent depending on the annual salary payment."

"The waiver in the Adjutant General's office is a flat 4 per cent, while the Tax Commission exempts $900.00 and then deducts 5 per cent to 10 per cent from the balance."

"Not even temporary cuts have been made in some departments. The employees in the office of the Secretary of State have waived 5 per cent of their annual salaries for the coming year while no reductions whatever have thus far been made in the salaries of those employed in the office of the Attorney General."

"The employees of the Public Service Commission are still on the same salary scale as previously obtained in spite of the fact that this commission has the largest number of highly paid employees of any department in the state service."

"In comparing the income of the state employee with that of the business and industrial employee, one must appreciate that the former has a position that offers continuous employment while the employees of business and industry are largely working on part time if, indeed, they are working at all."

State Death Toll Declines in July

Madison (AP)—The July death toll from all causes in Wisconsin dropped 225 as compared with the number of deaths in the same month last year, the state board of health announced today. There were 2,356 deaths last July.

The board attributed more than half of the reduction to temperate weather. There were only 21 deaths as a result of excessive heat last July as compared with 151 in July, 1931.

Heart diseases, the leading death cause in Wisconsin, claimed 477 lives or 21 less than a year ago, and the 281 deaths from cancer marked a decrease of 17 from the 1931 item, the board said.

There were 72 deaths from auto accidents last July, 14 less than in the same month last year. The 40 drownings in the state last July marked a decrease of 15 from those of a year ago. There were 59 suicides, an increase of two, and 12 homicides, an increase of nine.

Oil Burner Easily Built At Home From Standard Parts

Hundreds of home owners in Appleton want the comfort and convenience of oil heat in their homes, but have hesitated because of the price of the installation. Now it is possible for anyone who can read, and who is handy with a wrench and screw driver, to build and install their own burner.

Only two or three hours a day for a week will do the job, and when the first cool days come, the burner will be ready to heat your home.

All the parts for a burner can be purchased for as little as $96. Assembly is easy — just follow the blue prints. All parts are standard, and can be assembled in an hour or two. The design is approved by the Underwriter's Laboratories, and satisfaction is guaranteed. You deal direct with the factory.

More than 1200 of these burners are now giving satisfaction in Wisconsin homes. They are installed in all types of heating plants, either furnaces or boilers.

By buying the parts direct from the factory and spending a few hours time on the installation, you will save from $200 to $300. Even those who hire part of the work done save $150 to $250.

If you want to enjoy the comfort and economy of oil heat this winter, write at once. A factory engineer will be in Appleton soon with a demonstration burner. A special offer is made to the first home owner in Appleton to complete his own installation. A factory engineer will check each installation — that is why we can guarantee satisfaction. Write tonight to Guardian Utilities Co., Madison, Wisconsin. We have no high pressure salesmen in town so you will not be bothered. Ask for sample blueprint and specifications.

Back from Vacation!

Walter Lippmann's "TODAY AND TOMORROW"

is again appearing in the APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

If you have read Walter Lippmann in the past you will be glad to know that he is back from his vacation and that the Post-Crescent is again publishing his articles four times each week.

This winter men and women will follow "Today and Tomorrow" with greater interest than ever. They are beginning to see through the muddle of the last few years. They are trying to approach the complicated business of politics and diplomacy with clear heads and open eyes. To Walter Lippmann's clear and forceful essays they will look for a simple explanation of what is happening about them: the presidential campaign here; the political unrest abroad. For Lippmann writes so that all men can understand. With words as sharp and clean as a surgeon's blade he lays bare facts that have been buried by the too solid flesh of mass thinking, of engendered opinion, of demagogic blataney.

If you are not one of his audience, join it. You will find "Today and Tomorrow" in the Post-Crescent four times each week.

WHAT DID THE STATE SPEND?

In opening his campaign at Beaver Dam on August 9 Mr. Kohler made some direct and emphatic charges concerning the millions that had been spent by Governor LaFollette's administration. Among other things he asserted that the present governor had not obeyed a provision of the budget law, which Mr. Kohler had fathered, directing the publication of the accounts of the state at the close of the fiscal year which is the 30th of June.

"We have not seen that Governor LaFollette has made any direct response to this charge.

In the meantime figures are flying wildly about the state. You can get big figures or little figures, fat figures or lean figures, good figures or bad figures, just as you like.

Some of the governor's friends asserted the law was repealed, but that is an error.

The Wisconsin law makes the Budget Bureau an arm of the executive department. The director of the budget is appointed by the governor, and, except when the legislature is in session, may be discharged by the governor summarily, and without cause, and a new one appointed.

Subdivision 3 of Section 15.04 declares it to be the duty of such director, among other things,

"To prepare for publication by the governor at the end of each fiscal year a condensed, accurate and popular account of the finances of the state, showing the source of the state's revenue and the purpose of its expenditures, including comparison with prior years."

This is an excellent law.

It was written for an excellent purpose.

Note that the account is not only to be condensed and accurate but popular, that is, so prepared that the people may readily understand it.

Note, too, that the people must be shown "the source of the state's revenue" and also "the purpose of its expenditures."

With those official figures before him each voter could form his own fair conclusions whether he wanted a state levy on general property or preferred the enormous revenues the state takes over directly to be paid into the local treasuries.

We should like very much indeed to see such an account in the hands of every voter. The confusion that has resulted without it would largely disappear.

Note further that the law compels the governor's account to include "comparison with prior years."

That would be a particularly important feature because it would furnish a precise, exact and undeniable refutation or establishment of Mr. Kohler's constantly repeated charge that we are living through "the most extravagant administration the state has ever known."

If Governor LaFollette can afford to ignore charges, can he afford to ignore a plain law?

Wisconsin's fiscal year ended ten weeks ago.

Is there any reason why the official publication of this account should be longer delayed?

The law does not request this account to be printed. It commands it.

And the law is the articulate voice of the people.

CHEVROLET PLANT QUITS WISCONSIN

Like a bombshell to Janesville came the announcement that the great Chevrolet assembling plant there, employing 1,400 men, is folding up and quitting Wisconsin. The statement that it could not bear the burden of Wisconsin's taxation will bear minute investigation. Any statement made in the thick of a hotly contested political campaign will bear investigation. It is more likely that the plant gave up in despair at the threat of further loads upon its back than of any existing ones. Governor LaFollette did the proper thing by going immediately to Janesville and undertaking to save the industry for the state. This action may be compared to that of a certain Progressive editor who has flamboyantly published, in substance, the declaration, "Good riddance to bad rubbish" every time an industry quit, and who declared, moreover, that Wisconsin was glad to have any of those quit that didn't want to stay. Unfortunately the governor has to shoulder the burden for these wild men in his own camp.

The men who run industry are just as sensitive of their rights as anyone else in the state, just as reasonable in shouldering their fair share of the burden, or even more, when they consider that the state is, at least, trying to act fairly and honestly with them, and just as quick to give us the cold shoulder when they think the purpose is to "soak" them.

If the exact facts can be ascertained it will be found that Chevrolet, like all other plants we have lost, is going because of the threat of Wisconsin, of the wild talk of men like Huber and Blaine, men who make promises to "get" industry or sorely misrepresents its rights, expecting to secure votes from the misinformed ones whom they have misinformed.

To take another payroll of over a million and a half a year and see it go over the line into Illinois is an awful price to pay for keeping some of the extremists in office whom we insist upon retaining or for countenancing or tolerating in office men whom we know are the unfit, the bunglers.

PRIVATE AND PUBLIC RELIEF

The Oshkosh Community fund, which has had a nine year history of management of charitable and welfare organization finances, has announced that it will not conduct a campaign this year and has suggested that relief and charitable work in Oshkosh during the present emergency be financed by the city and county through taxation.

It is hoped this example will not be emulated in other Wisconsin cities and particularly in Appleton. One of the major tragedies of the depression would be the stifling of those fine groups of men and women in almost every city who have been carrying on private charities for no reward except love of the work and their fellow men. While public charity might be more efficient, and that is open to considerable question, there is no doubt that private charity involves much more of personal interest and of sympathy, and in benevolence that is quite as essential as the rationing of food and clothing and shelter.

Granted that the depression has brought about a condition that private charity cannot meet alone, it does not necessarily mean that they must retire completely from the work. While it is true that the great bulk of charity work in the present circumstance must be financed by taxation, there still is opportunity for private charity in conjunction with tax supported relief.

Appleton's experience in the last year has proved that public and private charities can work together for the mutual benefit of the city and those requiring relief, and, more important, it has kept alive the organizations that are depended upon in normal times to carry the major portion of the relief burden. No doubt similar arrangements can be made in every city that wants to try it.

The argument that taxation is the fairest means of financing relief is open to considerable question, even in this emergency. There are in Appleton, as in every other city, numerous men and women whose incomes have not been materially affected by the depression and whose taxes have been decreased, who now are in a better position to give to charity than ever before. On the other hand there are numerous property holders whose incomes have been so badly depleted that the extra drain on their resources by reason of increased taxes for relief is a tremendous burden. A private charity campaign designed to reach those still able to give will relieve the load from those hardest hit and at the same time will keep alive the spirit of giving which is likely to wither and die unless it is frequently cultivated.

But if Appleton is to have private charity to supplement the relief given by the city this coming winter it is not too early to begin consideration of campaign plans. The need for help assuredly is as great as last year and while it probably will be impossible to raise as much money as a year ago, every dollar that is raised will be that much taken from the shoulders of property holders who are finding the load almost more than they can carry.

SWAN CENSUS

The last Monday of July is a good day for a trip on the Thames for it is then that the ancient ceremony of "swan upping" takes place, and, unlike some ceremonies, this one is good fun to watch. It is not so much fun for the swan wardens, whose duty it is to round up the swans as they proceed up-river from London to Henley for the work is not easy, and a moment's carelessness might have serious consequences. A blow from a swan's wing has broken a man's leg before now.

The swan is a Royal bird, and it was reckoned a very great privilege when two of the city companies, the Vintners and the Dyers, were allowed to share with the crown the ownership of the Thames swans. Even today most of the swans on the Thames belong either to the Crown or to one of these two city companies. The cygnets are the property of the owners of the parent birds; if the parents should belong to different owners the brood is divided. Ownership of any particular bird is determined by an examination of the bill. If it is "marked," it belongs to one of the companies. Nicks are made with a sharp knife, and the number of them tells to whom the bird belongs. The purpose of the annual swan upping is to take a sort of "census" of the birds, and see to whom they belong. At the same time the year's cygnets are sorted out, and those belonging to the companies are marked. The Crown is represented by a swan warden, and so is each of the companies.—London Answers.

THE CLOCK on the wall of our corner of this gaudy nuzzlepepper plant stopped last week . . . so far it hasn't started to work again . . . it's very distressing . . . every morning we're late—according to the clock, boss—and every noon it's still morning and by the time the departing hour has arrived, we've worked three hours overtime . . . which is something we always try to prevent . . . all of which shows the disadvantages of depending upon clocks and watches . . . a fellow should use his sixth or seventh sense to tell him when he should start to work or quit working . . . in fact, that sounds like a swell idea . . . our ideas of working hours never did agree with the clock . . . or the people who hired us . . . and we have never been able to get into the same school of thought as the makers of alarm clocks . . .

T' heck with California. Why, just look at Appleton immediately after Labor Day. It was so cold at night that everyone had to use at least two blankets and Tuesday dawned bright and fair with increasing warmth.

So Jean Harlow's second husband decided that this life didn't hold enough for him and proceeded to exit via the lead treatment. The details of the tragedy have already been cared for by the papers. What we can't figure out is how she happens to remain 21 years old so darned long.

Read one remark which is probably darned true. That's the fact that since Jimmy Walker is no longer mayor of New York, the chances for finding him in New York are a heluva lot better now than ever before.

California keeps popping up today. Heard that California scientists are going to try to find a temperature of 454 below zero. But, dearie, they can't possibly stay in California to do that, can they?

The California press will probably recommend Florida and the Florida press can probably suggest a nice hot place for California to go to.

Being displayed in London is a stamp from back in 1856 and British Guiana, which is valued at $25,000. So you see, taxpayers and letter-writers of America, you aren't so bad off. Just look at the nice NEW stamps you can get at just a fraction of that price.

At which the stamp-collectors will get slightly delirious and start talking about the dam-fool stuff which gets into the papers these days.

Besides, the C. E. will call us up and ask sweetly when was the deadline moved back.

KING BIRD COURAGE
Every Summer o'er fields I know
I watch the king bird chase a crow,
And the great black hulk with flapping wings
In terror flees from the tiny stings
Which his little brother, with braver heart,
Rises above him to impart.
"Go to it, midget!" I shout in glee,
"And soak him a couple of times for me!"

Now the crow is trouble. When he appears
Every little bird for her nest eggs fears.
He's a feathered bully and mean and sly
And mother birds tremble when he draws nigh.
For he robs their nests and he kills their young,
And I'm sure by none are his praises sung.
But the king bird, less than a tenth his size
Can chase him out of the summer skies.

Man, if you're worried or frightened sore
At the troubles you've had for a year or more;
If you think that your care is a dreadful thing,
And you stand afraid of what day may bring,
Don't sit and wail that you're out of luck,
All that you need in this world is pluck.
Just think, when your courage seems running low
What a king bird does to a monster crow.

THE REPRIEVE!

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

MODERN TREATMENT OF A COMMON AFFLICTION

Once I had a patient—but I didn't know how to treat him, and so he died, of hemorrhoids.

The truth is that I didn't treat him at all. I wanted to treat him, urged, pleaded and threatened, but no, he would have none of it. At the time I believed I did my full duty. I offered to operate on the patient. He feared operations. He didn't relish the idea of taking an anesthetic. He had a complex in respect to hospitals. And he had always weathered his attacks somehow before, so he elected to worry along thru this one without benefit of surgery. And I finally gave up, washed my hands of the matter, informed his relatives I could not be responsible if the present illness ended fatally, and we all sat back to wait. We waited two weeks. Then the man died.

Now this patient was an ignorant man, not just ordinarily ignorant as are most laymen, that is, ignorant of anatomy, physiology, hygiene and pathology. He was ignorant that he was superstitious and foolish; when he got a notion into his head it so filled his head that there was no room left for any reasoning or intelligent thought. So you couldn't tell him anything that did not coincide with his notion. The sort of ignorance that irks.

I was ignorant, too. Had I been better informed I might have saved my patient in spite of himself. But my education had been sadly neglected. Nobody had ever told me that it is feasible to offer such a patient an alternative treatment. Of course, I had heard vaguely of the practice of certain quacks who pretended to treat hemorrhoids successfully by "nonsurgical" methods, and even to cure the trouble without requiring the patient to enter a hospital or give up his work or regular occupation for several weeks. But the fact that only quacks or doctors of no repute gave such treatment sufficed to convince me it was unsatisfactory or dangerous treatment—otherwise reputable physicians of specialists would use such treatment at least in some cases.

Today reputable physicians and specialists do give injection treatment for hemorrhoids and other related conditions, without detaining the patient from outside activities, without danger from general anesthesia, and with uniformly satisfactory results.

Had I been as far ahead of my time in practice as some of my friends say I am in my health teaching, I might have offered my patient injection treatment and no doubt he would have accepted such treatment. I believe it would have restored him to good health.

Lots of people not quite so ignorant as was my patient are ignorant enough to die of hemorrhoids.

Here is a case where the patient almost achieved such an end: N had suffered with internal hemorrhoids for 8 years, frequent bleeding and consequent loss of strength, until finally he was unable to walk without assistance. Hemorrhoids frequently prolapsed, became strangulated, bled profusely. Patient's hemoglobin reduced to 30 per cent. He was pale. Pulse rate fast even when he lay at rest. In fact he had been unable to remain on his feet since the last prolapse, strangulation and bleeding a few days before examination.

N received the injection treatment, two of the piles being injected the first day (the two the doctor thought were the worst bleeders), and two on opposite sides the fourth day. That was all. Two weeks later the hemoglobin was up to 50 per cent, no more bleeding, weight increasing . . . and now the patient is actually grateful!

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THR handcar wasn't hard to run. In fact, the Tynites thought it fun. Said Duncy, "We are going fast. We'd best slow up a bit. If we all work too hard, you see, we'll get as tired as tired can be. Right now this is a dandy ride. There's no sense spooling it."

"Aw, you're just lazy," Scouty cried. "You're that way, lad, whenever we ride. Keep pumping now and do your share. We'll all rest after awhile."

And then he added, "Wish I knew just where this funny track leads to. I get more curious as we move on, mile after mile."

Just then they reached a little turn and Copy cried, "Why don't you learn to keep your balance, Duncy? Why, you nearly took a flopi!"

"Hang to the bar and hang on tight. Then everything will be all right. If anybody tumbles off, we all will have to stop."

It wasn't very long until the ride had lost some of its thrill. Wee Windy started puffing and he said, "I'll have to rest."

"I see a pump ahead, I think. Let's stop by it and get a drink. Then I'll get right on again and do my very best."

The others didn't argue. They were glad to pass some time away just loafing, so they stopped the car and all jumped to the ground.

In 'bout an hour brave Scouty cried, "Come on, let's get back to our ride. I'm anxious to move on—ward, though we don't know where we're bound."

So, on they crawled and once more pumped. Then suddenly the small car jumped right down between two big, high banks, yet stayed upon the track.

The Tynites managed to hold tight, although it gave them quite a fright. Said Duncy, "Gee, that jerked me. Why, I thought I'd break my back!"

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — There's nothing about Senator "Pete" Norbeck of South Dakota that would lead one to think that he has any Scottish blood in his veins or that he would be particularly interested in the question.

He's Norwegian and proud of the fact. He still retains an accent that marks him immediately as a Scandinavian, even if his appearance didn't make sure of it.

But he must admire the Scots a great deal, for before he felt Washington for the west he had put in the Congressional Record a study that took up some five pages in small type on "Scots and Scottish Influence in Congress."

The study, made of a past congress and by a man around the capital who styles himself as a legislative anthropologist, purports to show just how much better as legislators are these senators who have Scottish blood in their veins.

In their educational status, the study shows, those senators with Scottish blood stand much the highest. Thirty-seven per cent of them are university men, 52 per cent college men and only 11 per cent with common school education.

The Scots engage in debate more often than do other senators and talk on more subjects. They answer more quorum calls and are present on voting occasions more often as well.

They are younger than the other senators, their average age being 56 to 59 for other senators.

But when it comes to getting bills through, there is little difference between the Scottish and non-Scottish senators.

"That the legislative superiority of Scotch blood is not accidental," says the study, "is shown further by the fact that conservative republicans with Scottish blood are distinctly superior in legislative results to conservative republicans without Scotch blood."

The study draws the same conclusions as to "progressive" republicans.

Without Comment
Just what is proved by the study, Senator Norbeck doesn't attempt to say. He merely put it in without comment.

From 1860 to 1900 there have been in the United States senate some 80 men of Scottish descent. Some of the most outstanding are Blair, Cameron, Cochrane, Logan, McPherson, Teller, McCumber, Vane, Blaine, Morton, McCumber, Breckenridge and Beveridge.

Perhaps it is necessary to go back further than the study itself to find a reason for its existence. Senator "Pete's" legislative anthropologist is a man by the name of MacDonald.

Russia shouldn't feel hurt because we don't recognize her. When we think back to 1929, it's about all we can do to recognize our own country.

Blow Whistles. Ring Bells. Men who haven't had new hats in seasons are going into prosperity head first.

In August there was an undercurrent of optimism in Appleton. Now that undercurrent has come to the surface. Men who haven't purchased new hats in 3 seasons are making a run on the hat boxes.

Naturally, since their last hats were bought in a high price era, they are surprised to see what we are showing at $3.50 and $5.

Come in . . . bring your headache . . . we'll send it home in a hat bag.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — One of the most refreshing things about the plan of that young publisher to get out 5,000,000 books a year, retailing at 50 cents apiece, is the way it figures to fatten the purses of some of the writing clan.

He offers his writers 2 1/2 to 5 cents out of each 50-cent sale, with 100,000 copies to be run off the presses under each title.

His arrangement to distribute a maximum of 5,000,000 books through 70,000 magazine dealers during the coming year will, he says, put fresh novels within the reach of more than 30,000,000 people who haven't had a book store at hand.

The average writer gets from 25 to 30 cents from each $2 book sold. It is nothing uncommon for him to come out of the shuffle with only a couple of hundred dollars to show for months of laboring over his script. A few thousand copies is the average run.

Why? Well, our 34-year-old publishing friend points to a recent survey which showed only 3,000 book stores in this great, populous land. All of the publishers of $2 books have been trying to jam their thousands and thousands of products through these few shops, he says.

Despite radio, the movies and all the mechanical means for diversion the age offers, people still will read books if books are placed within their reach, at a price they can afford to pay, he insists. He tested his idea, selling mystery novels through a chain of cigar stores, and satisfied himself that it would work.

He is beginning his enlarged program with novels designed to be popular, yet of fairly good quality. Before long, he hopes, he will be able to command the services of some of the big names among the more "literary" ladies and gentlemen.

No reprints—everything new.

They'll Fool Creditors
One of the sad sidelights of the depressed conditions of the theater is the plight of the wig shops.

Several of the musty-looking establishments in the side streets off Broadway still are open for business, but there isn't much business.

I talked to the manager of one of these places the other day, and he told me he actually was getting more trade from toupee wearers than from wig customers.

What every wig maker hopes for, of course, is a grand-scale revival of Shakespeare.

Just one can't help wondering why they don't get some business from the ladies and gents who are trying to dodge their creditors.

Agnes Ayres—remember her as the heroine of "The Sheik," opposite Valentino?—now is making public appearances at dance halls for what little money she can get out of it. Miss Ayres still is good looking.

Walk Projects Authorized by City Council

Aldermen Also Pave Way For Proposed Opening of Alley

Menasha—Street and sidewalk projects, including preliminary action on the proposed opening of the alley in the 200 block on the north side of Main-st., and on the proposed extension of Manitowoc-st., occupied the attention of the common council at a regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Opening of the alley in block 43 of the First ward has been before the council on several occasions and at Tuesday's session a resolution authorizing the city engineer to make a survey and the board of public works to bring in a report was approved.

A similar resolution, authorizing a survey of the proposed extension of Manitowoc-st. from Sixth-st. to Appleton-rd and ordering the board of public works to report on the width, location and extension and on the procedure necessary for immediate action, also passed.

Assessments

The Kaukauna-st curb and gutter assessments and the Eighth, Ninth, and Appleton-st sewer assessments were approved and following a hearing at which no property owners made objections, a permit for the construction of a greenhouse adjacent to London-st in the Fourth ward was granted to B. J. Linsdau.

The removal of the glass plot in the center of Nicolet-blvd in the two blocks between Washington-st and Ahnaip-st will be discussed at a meeting of the Menasha street committee with Neenah officials, it was decided Tuesday. The plan is suggested to eliminate a parking problem at that point.

Considerable discussion followed a motion by Alderman Grode providing that the current for electric lighting on the welcome sign at the city line be cut off and that the use of electric power at the Mill-st bridge also be discontinued. The plan for eliminating the lighting on the sign was approved without opposition, but Aldermen Small, Brezninski, Michalkiewicz and Grade opposed the exclusive use of hand power in operating the bridge.

The motion finally was passed. Alderman Grade suggested shutting off the electric power on the Tayco-st bridge during the months when navigation is closed and the matter was referred to the bridge committee and city attorney.

One Lawn Seed Bid

One bid on the provision of lawn seed for use at the new Resthaven cemetery, quoting prices of from $14.75 to $15.00 per 100 pounds, was received by the council, but following a recommendation by the cemetery committee, the proposal was rejected. No bids were received on the provision of cemetery lot markers.

A statement of tax delinquency on a 5' 9" trip of land between the north side of Seventh-st and the south side of Eighth-st, property was read and referred back to the city attorney.

Construction of sidewalks on the south side of Seventh-st from Appleton to DePere-st, on the north side of Seventh-st westward about 180 feet from Racine-st, and on the east side of Tayco-st between Eighth-st and Grandview-ave was authorized. The use of outside labor on the Jefferson school building was questioned by Alderman Grade and a motion providing that the poor committee meet with the school board and the contractors for an investigation of contract agreements was approved.

A report of a meeting with Neenah officials relative to sharing the lighting expense on Nicolet-blvd revealed that an investigation was to be made by Neenah officials as to whether or not they could legally contract to pay Menasha for lights. The alternative would be to remove some of the Menasha owned lights and substitute equipment owned by Neenah, it was stated.

Petition For Sewer

A petition for a sewer on Warsaw-st was referred to the street committee, a petition for a permit to hang up a sign at 566 Racine-st was referred to the street committee and the city attorney, and another petition for permission to construct a neighborhood store at 568 Milwaukee-st was referred to the city attorney, and a plea for action to eliminate radio interference near the Jefferson school in the Fifth ward was referred to the Fifth ward aldermen.

A resolution providing for the support of an aged Menasha couple in claim for a lien on their property was passed and a deed of the property to the city was accepted.

The monthly report of the poor committee revealed an expenditure of $3,520.54, of which $287.47 was charged to outside sources and $2,407.13 was returned to the city in refunds and labor.

The vocational school budget, announced recently, was presented Tuesday and revealed that a total of $22,899.06 was necessary and that $14,477.91 must be provided by the municipality. The budget was referred to the committee of the whole.

Alderman Grode suggested that action be taken to provide for garbage removal in the city, but it was pointed out that an offer has been made by an individual in Menasha to haul garbage at a small cost per month. The board of health was authorized to purchase milk inspection and testing tanks.

Public Expenses Must be Lowered, Fox Points Out

Taxation and Depression Chief Questions, Says Democratic Candidate

Menasha — Attacking both the Stalwart and Progressive administrations for increasing the Wisconsin tax burden, P. Fox of Chil-ton, Democratic candidate for governor, addressed a Menasha audience at the city triangle here Tuesday evening.

Classifying taxation and the present economic distress as the most important questions before the people in this campaign, Fox listed as causes of the depression excessive public expenditures; high taxes, too many taxes; undue infringement of the state and national governments on private business, imposing upon all forms of business unreasonable burdens and restrictions as a consequence of which the owner has become disgraced and given up; followed by unemployment and consequent evils; private and public monopolies; enormous debts excessive rates of interest; low prices for farm products, and small wages.

As one of the remedies for this situation, Fox advocated that public expenditures be cut 50 per cent and that the state should be accomplished without impairment of any of the essential services of government.

Would Limit Costs

Other recommendations were to limit the power of the legislature by law "to the appropriation of money and the levying of taxes on the people, for strictly public purposes, such purposes to be defined by law."

He continued by advocating more fair and just laws governing the furnishing of service by the public utilities; enactment of a law requiring utilities to make proper extensions at their own expense; investment in municipally owned utilities with authority to fix prices and make extensions without interference by the public service commission; repeal of unjust laws and place enforcement of all laws in the hands of the county and municipal; elimination of interference of business interests with official exercising dictatorial powers; from Madison and Washington; repeal of the eighteenth amendment; and a simpler and more effective method by which veterans can obtain justice and have their claims for compensation relief, pension and insurance handled expeditiously and effectively.

He attacked tax increases under Republican administrations and listed expenditures in a number of state departments.

He concluded by urging a return to constitutional government and the removal of bureaucracy in state and national government. The Democratic party, he said, is the only party competent to accomplish these ends in Wisconsin and the remaining states.

Traces Origin Of Silk Industry

Influence of China on Modern Industry Discussed by Stough

Menasha—The influence of China on Modern Industry was the subject of a talk by Robert Stough, an official of the Wisconsin Tissue Mills, at a meeting of the Kiwanis club in Hotel Menasha Tuesday noon. Stough, who was stationed in China for several years as an employee of the Standard Oil company of New York, presented maps and pictures to illustrate his talk before the Kiwanis Tuesday.

Stough described the manufacture of fine porcelains in China, explaining that entire families devoted their skill to a particular phase of the work and that the perfect pieces rarely left the country. Chinese products utilized in America include medicines, tangerines, Chinese cabbage, peanuts and peanut oil, gall nuts, indigo, wood oil, musk, rice, dried eggs, and a type of wheat that he highly resistant to wheat rust.

The speaker continued with an explanation of the origin of the silk industry in China, the invention of the compass about 2,600 B. C., the first paper made in China from silk, the methods of manufacturing crude paper, the use of wood blocks in early printing, and the fluctuating Chinese currency system.

Party History of Democrats Traced By Congressman

No Handicaps in Present Campaign, M. K. Reilly Points Out

Menasha—"If Wisconsin Democrats will poll 200,000 votes in the primary election, Franklin D. Roosevelt will carry the state in November", Congressman Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac, a candidate for reelection on the Democratic ticket, recently predicted in an address before a large audience in Menasha.

Reilly was introduced by Joseph R. Coyle of Menasha, Democratic candidate for Winnebago-co treasurer. His address was immediately preceded by a concert by the Menasha high school band, playing under the direction of L. E. Kraft.

Reilly confined his talk almost entirely to national issues and said that the Democratic party was entering the present race without a handicap for the first time in many years. Tracing the history of the party since Jefferson's administration, he pointed particularly to the administration of Woodrow Wilson and to the number of laws passed during Wilson's terms that were favorable to laborers, businessmen and farmers.

He referred to Al Smith as a great leader, and said that the reason he was not the party's standard bearer in the present campaign was that he did not become a candidate until shortly before the convention. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Reilly stated is a great candidate, has character, is becoming stronger every day, and is an upstanding, two fisted man. His conduct of the Walker case in New York has proven that he is no "pussyfoot", he said. The New York governor has written a book, published recently, in which he takes a definite stand on every major issue, Reilly pointed out, and on the prohibition question he came out flatly for repeal of the eighteenth amendment two years ago.

There can be no justifiable criticism of John Garner of Texas or of the Democratic house of representatives, Reilly maintained. The previous house, controlled by the Republicans, was not asked to clear up the national deficit, but when the Democrats took control at the last session they faced a two and one half billion dollar deficit and was a $700,000,000 reduction in the cost of government, he stated.

Four bills, urged by the president including the land bank appropriation, the reconstruction finance corporation, the amendment to the Federal reserve law, and the Federal home loan bank bill were passed by the house, under John Garner, as steps toward readjustment of economic conditions. Referring to the recent tax bill, necessary to balance the budget, he said party lines were almost entirely forgotten and that no congress ever voted for a tax bill with more regret.

Scores Republicans

Classifying the wet and dry problem as a big question, Reilly said that seven out of 11 members of the Wickersham commission reported that prohibition had failed, but that Hoover had ignored the report. He described the present Republican plan as a fine example of classism.

Teaching briefly on the evils of prohibition, Reilly said that the Republican party has refused to commit itself but that the Democrats have taken a definite stand. He concluded by urging Democrats to remain loyal to their party in the primary election as well as in November.

Mayor Stresses Relief Program

Consider Problem Thoroughly, He Tells Common Council

Menasha—An appeal for serious consideration of the problem of public relief, through investigation of individual cases, and the cooperation of officials and citizens was made by Mayor N. G. Remmel in a talk before the common council Tuesday evening.

Pointing out that demands for poor aid was increasing steadily, the mayor said the city was responsible for the care of the needy, but that officials must be certain that aid is necessary before it is granted.

Mayor Remmel told of the assistance that has been provided by Menasha merchants in furnishing food on a standard price basis and of reduction for poor cases that have been made at Theda Clark and St. Elizabeth hospitals.

Reminding the aldermen that they are soon to outline a budget for next year, the mayor said that taxes cannot go higher and must go lower if possible, and expressed the confidence that with the cooperation of the taxpayers, the problems could be solved.

Alderman Heckrodt suggested as an aid to relief investigations that at least two women in each ward, with authority to act, should interview needy families and assist in determining the type and amount of aid necessary.

Falcons Defeat Appleton Squad

Pound Out 20 Hits to Turn Back Merchants by 16 to 1 Score

Menasha—Driving out 20 hits in eight innings, the Menasha Falcons romped to an easy 16 to 1 victory over the Appleton Merchants in a Little Fox league encounter on the city ball diamond here Sunday afternoon. Ragged defensive play contributed to the Appleton defeat.

Julian Konezke, working on the mound for the Falcons, allowed only two hits in seven innings. He was replaced by "Tony" Konezke in the eighth to save him for another game at Appleton Monday. "Tony" Konezke allowed three hits and no runs in the remaining two innings.

The Appleton team scored its only run in the second inning. M. King grounded to third, but F. King's error on the throw allowed a second when Before grounded out, and scored on a single to right by Tornow. Tornow, attempting to stretch his single into a two bagger, was thrown out at second.

The Falcons scored twice in the second, twice in the third, eight times in the sixth, once in the seventh, and three times in the eighth. Dombrowski and Peck each were credited with two doubles and a single while Manager Konezke contributed to the offensive with a double and a home run. The homer was driven over the right field wall in the sixth frame with Omar on base.

The winning battery was Konezke, Konezke and Omar. Buss worked on the rubber for Appleton, with Helms receiving and was credited with seven strikeouts.

Restore Decent Conditions, Is LaFollette Plea

Forget Politics and Think About State, Governor Urges

Neenah—Listing tax reductions under the Progressive administration and explaining the Progressive plan for meeting the public relief problem, Governor Philip LaFollette addressed a large audience in Shattuck park here Tuesday afternoon. He appeared at a meeting of Progressive leaders in Armory B. at Oshkosh at 7:30 Tuesday evening and delivered a campaign address in South park at 8 o'clock.

The governor asserted that the issues of this campaign transcended personalities and involved fundamentals, and pointed out that the great object of people throughout the country, regardless of political alliances, was to restore decent and proper conditions.

Confining his address here to the problem of taxation and administration of relief, he said that under his administration reductions in appropriations for government totalled $3,000,000; reductions in property taxes, $14,000,000; and reduction in all taxes collected, $10,000,000. The state property tax was reduced 100 per cent, he pointed out.

Taxes Cut In County

Tax reductions in Winnebago-co alone totalled $540,000, he stated, of which about $220,000 was made through local economies and the remainder through funds returned to the communities in state aids.

He referred to the "317,000,000 tax to provide funds for relief needs through income taxes and explained that if the relief burden was left to the individual communities they would have to be paid from real estate taxes. A national emergency must be met by an organized society and not a disorganized mob, he pointed out.

Another purpose of the bill was to provide for employment of workers, he explained, adding that when the "waste" objection to such employment is raised, the waste in human character caused by the administration of aid without employment should be considered. Under the Progressive plan, workers could be provided with employment on highway and reforestation projects.

Explains Income Tax

He continued with a discussion of the income tax, maintaining that it is the fairest tax that can be levied and explaining that the "three year average" was a Stalwart creation, later repealed by the Progressives. He attacked the tax exemptions on incomes derived from dividends, and quoted a number of examples in which individuals with large dividend incomes have paid only a few dollars in income taxes.

The Stalwarts propose to raise the money for relief needs through reductions in bureaus and commissions, he stated, adding that about $200,000 would be needed for relief and that the entire cost of administrative departments of the state government totalled only $8,000,000.

He concluded with a plea to "forget politics and think about Wisconsin," and urged voters to support the entire Progressive ticket.

Prior to the governor's address, H. W. Barker, Winnebago-co Progressive chairman; Gailford Dahlstrom, Progressive candidate for Winnebago-co register of deeds; E. F. McMillan, Progressive candidate for assemblyman from the second district; and Walter D. Corrigan, Progressive candidate for congress from the Sixth district appeared on the platform and spoke briefly.

Defeat Kleenex Team 6 to 0 in Final Game Of Series

Neenah — Working smoothly behind sensational pitching by Klein, the Wisconsin Telephone company's softball team shut out the Kleenex aggregation, 6 to 0, in the third and deciding tilt of a three-game series on the Columbia-ave diamond Tuesday evening and took undisputed possession of the city championship. Klein allowed only five scattered hits in seven innings and was credited with 12 strikeouts.

A crowd of about 2,000 spectators witnessed the battle. The Phones opened their offensive in the first frame when Zeilinski, the second man at the plate, drove a two base hit to center and scored when Klock muffed the ball. Two more runs were added in the third when Verbrick drove a home run down the left field foul line, Goldner followed with a single to left, and Zeilinski doubled to right to score Goldner.

Add To Score

Holzer opened the fifth inning for the Phones with a double to left and crossed the plate with another counter when Verbrick singled over second base. With the contest almost in the bag, the champions added their fifth and sixth runs in the sixth frame when Stelcow singled and Klein's double to left escaped the fielder and allowed both runners to score.

The Kleenex squad had their best opportunity to score in the second inning when Christofferson singled. Zinger walked, Quayle struckout and Klock singled to fill the bases. Klein checked the rally, however, by striking out Krull and Moulton.

The winning battery was Klein and Holzer while Christofferson went the route for the Kleenex team with Quayle behind the plate. In the opening games of the series, each team was credited with one victory.

Blame Taxes For Closing Of 2 Plants

Kohler and Blanchard Ask About Action to Retain Them in State

(By the Associated Press)
Former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and State Senator George Blanchard shared the speakers' program at a meeting in Horace White park at Beloit last night. Both blamed the taxation policies of the present state administration for the recent announcement that the Chevrolet Motors and Fisher Body company would close their plant at Janesville.

"LaFollette says that he is going to try to keep these industries in the state," Kohler said. "I hope so. But in the next breath he talks about confiscation of property and division of wealth. The stalwarts have long sought some sanity in regulation and taxation of industry in Wisconsin to encourage its growth and continuance."

Blanchard, who is seeking the Republican nomination for congress from the First district, said the public should be advised of the steps which the governor intends to take in keeping this industry in the state. Some consideration should also be given, he said to other industrial plants now heavily taxed.

Kohler devoted most of his address to a discussion of the responsibility of the Public Service commission in protecting Wisconsin investors.

Loss to Investors

"The quickest, surest and most direct way of discouraging the issuance of fraudulent securities in this country would be to put the guilty parties behind the bars," he said. "One of the most distressing conditions today is the loss of their life's savings by thousands of small investors. These people have bought real estate mortgage bonds and other securities on the strength of the Public Service commission's sanction and now many of these investments are in default."

Kohler said he favors enactment of a law which would require companies whose securities are sold in Wisconsin to have periodic audits by independent, certified public accountants and at their own expense, and that these reports be sent to their investors and to the Public Service commission. It would then be a small matter, he said, for the commission to review these reports and cull from the approved list the securities which appear to be unsound.

John B. Chapple, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, told an audience at Two Rivers that Senator John J. Blaine's "lack of constructive activity is nowhere more clearly evident than in his failure to co-operate with the Republican administration at Washington in helping to bring the St. Lawrence waterway project to completion."

Say Stalwarts Miscalc

Senator Blaine said in a campaign address at Fort Atkinson last night that the stalwart Republicans are miscalculating the public by making voters believe they would raise a $20,000,000 relief fund by reducing expenditures on state bureaus and commissions.

If such reductions were achieved, he said, it would be equivalent to taking $20,000,000 out of $6,000,000, that being the approximate cost of state bureaus and commissions, circuit courts and supreme court, the state fair and county fairs, cost of

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

A New Deal

There is almost no chance at all that there will be a revolution in the United States. On the other hand, it is practically certain that "rugged individualism" in this country is leader than a dried herring, and the coming decade will see a pronounced swing to the left in the relations between government and business.

These are the conclusions of Stuart Chase in "A New Deal," a very readable and amazingly stimulating discussion of the economic depression and the problems growing out of it.

Mr. Chase bluntly blames just about all of the ills of the last few years on the doctrine of free competition—the "laissez faire" policy of the classical economists. He asserts that an economic system which ignores all human values and makes the motive of private profit its only guiding star is bound to collapse sooner or later, and he believes that the current depression is in fact the final collapse of the traditional system.

Yet he believes that the profit motive will be retained, and he is no great friend of Socialism. Before long, he predicts, we shall have government regulation of business on a vast scale; we shall have a "managed currency" which will prevent fluctuating prices and we shall have a cast number of restrictions on the way in which a man can get rich.

You may agree with all of his conclusions or with none of them. Either way, you are bound to find his book thought-provoking and informative. It ought to get a very wide reading.

Budget Bureau Tries To Keep Costs Down

Washington—(AP)—With a balanced budget by 1934 its goal, the budget bureau Tuesday began figuring how to bring Uncle Sam's operating costs for that fiscal year within the prospective revenues.

That was the objective outlined by President Hoover in his budget message last year and toward that end a billion-dollar tax bill was enacted. Now the problem facing Director J. Clawson Roper and his aides is bringing government costs within its taxes.

Hearings were opened behind closed doors today and until Oct. 29, department executives must justify the requests they have submitted. Then the bureau will be ready to measure proposed outlays by the yardstick of estimated revenues.

Fleetwood, England—Hake, like still water, runs deep. The steam trawler Margaret Rose, sailing in search of new hake fishing grounds off the eastern United States, carried equipment to fish at 350 fathoms, or 2,100 feet. "Americans do not fish below 100 fathoms," the skipper explained.

bovine tuberculosis and pay of state constitutional officers.

The senator said the income tax is "the most just means of taxation and the most logical means of raising funds for relief." He insisted that taxation is the main issue of this campaign and that the stalwarts are attempting to distract attention from that subject.

Gov. Philip F. LaFollette also criticized tactics of the stalwart Republican campaigners in a talk in South Side park at Oshkosh. When a heckler interfered with his address the governor urged that the man be allowed to remain and "get an education."

Schenken Wins Contract Title

Jumps From Twentieth to First Place in Final Session

Long Branch, N. J. — (9)— Thanks to a whirlwind finish Howard Schenken of New York, possesses today the individual masters' contract championship and a trophy provided by Willard S. Karn.

He rose to the top Monday in the last of three sessions of competition after being in 20th place at one time. When yesterday's play began, he was 14 points behind the leader, David Burnstine of New York, but he wound up with 4014 match points, while Burnstine took second with 3984. Richard L. Frey of New York was third with 3904.

Frey and George Unger of Deal, N. J., who finished 16th with 3524, were the only pair to make a slam on the following hand:

North	South
S-4	S-A 10 9
H-6	H-A J 5 4
D-K Q 9 7 2	D-J 6 5
C-A J 6 5 4	C-K Q 7

East: S-K Q J 8 7, H-Q 8 7 3, D-A 8 3, C-10 3
West (Dealer): S-6 5 3 2, H-10 9 2, D-4 5 3, C-9 8 2

East and West vulnerable. West passed. North (Unger) bid one diamond. East, one spade. South (Frey), fearing Unger had made a psychic bid, bid only one no trump. North bid two clubs, south three hearts north four hearts. South four spades to demonstrate command of the adverse suit, north four no trump, south five clubs, north six clubs. The slam is a lay-down with the concession of a diamond trick.

2 Sisters are Re-united After 15-Year Separation

Racine — (9)— Two sisters were reunited in Sheboygan Falls last week after a separation of 15 years, during which they had lost trace of each other, it was learned here Tuesday.

Mrs. John Riddle, Racine, recalled that her sister, Betty, who had been adopted when they were children in Milwaukee, had a birthday in August and that she would be 21 years old. Accordingly, she asked Milwaukee officials to check adoption records to help find her sister. It was learned that Betty had been adopted by Mrs. Rose Bauernfeind, Sheboygan Falls, 15 years ago, and that she was to be married to Wilbur Boart, Kohler. Last Friday, Mrs. Riddle was a guest at the wedding.

Contract With Utility Given Final Approval

Council Acted Wisely in Matter, State Commission Decides

New London—Approval of the Wisconsin Public Service commission was given to the contract recently entered into between the city of New London and the Wisconsin Power and Light company. This contract had a little over two years before its expiration, but was signed for another 10 years on account of its favorable terms. Another reason the city entered into the contract was that the power company agreed to install automatic switches which would give better service. The installation of this new equipment, however, is to cost the power company approximately $17,000, so that in order that the city should enter into the long term contract.

This was agreed upon some months ago and was followed by considerable opposition by the Little Wolf Power company and the American Plywood Corporation, who stated that cheaper electrical rates could be secured were a power plant erected on the Little Wolf company's holdings. But the Wisconsin Public Service commission and a survey by the commission followed. Announcement of the service investigation was made at the council meeting Tuesday evening by Mayor E. W. Wendlandt.

The statement read was to the effect that the commission could not recommend the city securing electricity from the Little Wolf project. The commission's opinion was that the mayor and council had acted wisely in entering into a favorable contract.

Opposes Action
Disapproval of the action granting the use of the old school barracks to the boy and girl scouts was voiced Tuesday evening by City Attorney W. J. Butler. Butler, favoring the plan proposed by himself whereby the barracks would be put into rentable condition. He thought it an unjust tax on property holders to put these buildings into the hands of children.

Mayor Wendlandt agreed with the attorney that New London children did not always value city property but thought that the town should not with the younger children but with those "children" between the age of 35 and 40. Mr. Wendlandt also asserted his faith in boy scouts and pointed out that the city was better for having the organization here. He said that something should be done to encourage scouting and that the barracks would provide a decent place for youngsters to gather under correct supervision.

Alderman Lipke, head of the city poor department, also favored rescinding the gift of the barracks, stating that his department could use these buildings for residences. Because of the fact that the council had previously agreed without opposition to the plan of disposing of the buildings, the matter was dropped.

Turtle Collection Prized Possession Of New London Boy

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A collection of turtles, secured during the summer, is one of the most prized possessions of Eugene Hotchkiss, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hotchkiss, 3 Pearl-st. Kept in tubs and pails in the rear of the residence, the turtles number about 20, though Eugene states that he had to return some to the river and that at one time he had nearly 30. While most of these are the common sand turtles and snappers, there is in the collection one huge specimen which is the young collector's pride. It is a female member of the Ferox variety, rarely seen hereabout and known as the soft shelled or rubber shelled turtle.

This specimen is ferocious. It has a long neck and a snake-like head. The body is covered in a queer, flabby shell which in color and texture appears like rubber. The color is a greenish brown and the whole of the strange creature measures more than a foot from its outstretched neck to the end of its tail. What will happen to the turtle colony depends upon the biologist's parents, who find that turtles are not the most attractive pets in the world. The lad's mother states that her son has been collecting and studying wild life since he was a tiny boy, and seems to lay particular stress upon bugs and worms. He is finding an interesting compatriot in the Rev. F. S. Dayton, curator of the museum, who aids in the classification of the various specimens.

Seek Progress, Meating Advises

Necessity of Education Is Stressed by County School Leader

New London—Choosing for his topic "Progress," A. G. Meating, superintendent of Outagamie-county schools, addressed the Lions club Tuesday evening. Meating, who is the good old days were good, but stated that the good new days were better. Progress, he asserted, is best shown by the creative and inventive genius of man. Education plays its part in this by teaching children to think for themselves. Teachers, he pointed out, in doing their work well are enabled to further individual genius.

Mr. Meating read two letters, one dated 1828 and the other 1818. The first missive related to a petition addressed to the school board at Lancaster, O., in which a request was made for the use of a school building. In reply the board stated that the building could be used to stage debates but that the railroad telegraph must not be mentioned. The second letter, dated 1818, was that because the railroad and telegraph were not mentioned in the Bible it would be going against the divine wish to speak any good of them.

To further show how progress was hindered, Mr. Meating, in reading the second letter, showed how people were opposed to gas as a means of illumination. Religious bodies asserted that the new method of lighting would interfere with God's plan of having day and night. The medical profession claimed that with better lights outside, people would stay up later and in being out in damp air would catch cold which in turn would spread more disease. Police authorities also objected to the proposal of new lighting. They wished people to remain in their homes and stated that thieves would have better opportunities to work in the improved light. Mr. Meating pointed out the progress of the nation by comparing present day conveniences with those of the past generations.

Many Accidents Result From Jumping Arterial

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—Though the country traffic officer has been intercepting numerous offending motorists at the location, an increasing number of automobile drivers have been inflicting their own penalty in the shape of damaged automobiles for jumping the arterial stop sign at the junction of Highways 10 and 57 at the western foot of the west Forest Junction viaduct. Since the opening of the new pavement on Highway 57 in July, at least four cars have already been damaged in identical accidents. Drivers speeding from the south, who ignore the stop signs, also fail to notice that Highway 57 turns eastward with Highway 10 up the viaduct until they find themselves on the intersection, and then attempt to turn sharply, occasionally with disastrous results. The latest victims were two cars delayed here in weekend accidents of this nature. A passenger coupe from Illinois, occupied by two men and a woman, turned at the location late Saturday night, requiring two of the occupants to receive hospital treatment. A similar mishap befell a northbound fruit truck on Friday evening, damaging not only the truck, but resulting also in a sensational spill of apples, pears, and oranges constituting the load.

Kaukauna Will Help to Clothe Poor Children

Council Votes to Buy Clothing for Destitute Youngsters

Kaukauna—That the budget plan suggested by Mayor B. W. Fargo last year is employed successfully here was revealed in a discussion of the city treasurer's report Tuesday evening by Alderman Arthur Brewster, chairman of the common council meeting. According to Alderman Brewster the city had operated on $2,000 under the budget for August.

City funds during the month were decreased approximately $14,000, leaving a balance of $88,056.32. This is approximately $2,000 more than was expected at the end of the month. If the city can continue to operate on the schedule, it can complete the year without borrowing, aldermen point out. The balance in the city treasury on Aug. 1 was $102,225.71, disbursements amounted to $47,217.57, and receipts were $42,048.33.

Immediate need of clothing for children of families on the poor list was shown by Alderman William Gilman, chairman of the poor committee. He stated that the children were unable to attend school until they could receive suitable clothing.

More Clothing Sought

R. H. McCarthy, poor commissioner, said that in the last few days he had been approached by parents of 12 or more families seeking clothing for their children. The poor committee recently decided not to purchase any clothing for city poor. Alderman Walter Cooper favored purchasing clothing for children only. He asked that the poor committee meet with a number of ladies and organize a group to solicit clothing.

A motion to buy clothing immediately for the children who are to attend school was offered by Alderman E. Brewster, who also favored soliciting clothing by some charity group. Alderman Cooper supported the motion and the aldermen agreed unanimously.

With the presentation of bills of city poor for consideration, a lengthy discussion was started when Alderman Cooper asked for economy in that department. Stating that conditions were becoming worse, Alderman Cooper said steps toward greater economy should be taken, predicting that the situation would become very difficult this winter. Alderman Lummerding agreed with Alderman Cooper and contended that the rents being charged for city poor were too high. Comparing them with rates charged in several nearby cities, it was pointed out by Alderman Gilman that the average paid here is $11.50 and that this amount is considerably less than in many of the nearby communities. Alderman Gilman also stated that it would be impossible to lower the rents here.

Questions Park Bill

Questioning a bill of the park board for labor and materials used in the improvement of the sulphur spring park on the south side of the city, Alderman Cooper declared too much money had been spent without authority. He said that any further expenditures of the park board that were not authorized by an authorized group would not be allowed.

E. R. Landreman of the park board explained the expenditures. He told the aldermen that of the money spent for wages, more than half had been returned to the city poor fund. A working agreement between the park board and the city poor commissioner had been devised and the park board had hired only men from the poor list. The money they had earned was turned back into the poor fund and in this manner the city had received some return for the money given to the persons on the poor list, he explained.

That unemployed property owners should be given preference over those persons on the poor list was the contention of Mr. Cooper. He criticized the poor commissioner for his attitude in several instances with property owners who had sought work instead of aid from the commissioner. Property owners ought to be given preference instead of being steered off in favor of men who were already relying on the city for support, Mr. Cooper declared.

Alderman Gilman defended the poor commissioner and showed the aldermen where several men who owned property had been employed with those on the poor list. Some property owners also were receiving aid without having to work, he reported.

Would Examine List

Investigation of the list of delinquent taxpayers to determine those who need aid most was suggested by Alderman Brewster. It was his belief that the group investigating the list could select those who are near losing their property and these could be provided with work as soon as possible. Alderman Brewster also recommended the transfer of $6,000 from the contingent to the poor fund.

After hearing several complaints on the dumping of garbage and other refuse at the city dumping ground on E. Fourteenth-st., it was suggested that a man be placed at the grounds to watch the dumping. In this manner the disposal of rubbish could be regulated so that stench could be eliminated.

A recommendation of the north road district, presented by Alderman Walter Cooper, opposed the routing of a road through tourist park. George Black, who owns the property adjacent to Tourist park, and is seeking a road along the old interurban right-of-way, was asked to give another solution to a road to provide an entrance to the property along the river there.

Mr. Black suggested that the city join him in preparing the old interurban right-of-way for a road. Following lengthy discussion in which it was revealed that the city would not accept the right-of-way as a road until it had been im-

The Faithful Cheat BY RUBY M. AYRES

Chapter 36

STANDING BY A MISTAKE

PRESENTLY Sondra went on again falteringly—

"You've never really known me, Mark—not as I am. I know you love me, but sometimes... well, love is supposed to be blind, isn't it? You mustn't mind if it hurts you—what I am going to say—but if we're ever going to be happy, we must understand each other, mustn't we, dear?"

Mark turned then, and looked at her.

"Was Anderson ever your lover?" he asked.

"No—no—never."

There was a little silence, and she closed her eyes.

"Well?" he said patiently.

Sondra went on.

"I've never had any money of my own—I don't think you knew that, and I hated being poor. Flora was good to me—while she lived with Ben—but even that wasn't enough. I don't think you understand that there are lots of girls in the world like me—girls who take expensive presents from men and think nothing about it—men they don't care anything about—"

"As you did from Anderson—" he interrupted.

"Yes—" she caught her breath. "As I did. He was rich, and I didn't see any harm in it—there wasn't really... You see—" she moved her hands helplessly. "I knew you loved me—I loved you too—at least... but I was afraid—so I asked John to give you that postcard to send you away, because I was afraid. I knew we should be poor and I loathed being poor... Then the—when I knew you were really going, I felt as if I couldn't bear it, and so... well, you know the rest."

She stopped, with a feeling of amazement at herself. Had she ever loved this man so utterly that she had been driven to make the greatest mistake of her life? She felt as if she was telling him about some one else—repeating a story she had heard.

She went on presently. "Well, you went away—and then Flora left Ben, and I hadn't anything—only a few dollars. I suppose I ought to have told you, but somehow I couldn't. Then—Mark—you must try to understand, dear—Mr. Anderson asked me to marry him. His wife died—you know that—and so... so I had to tell him that I was already married to you."

He gave a bitter little laugh. "That was hard luck Sondra—a rich man like Anderson—"

She said brokenly. "Don't be... unkind, Mark—"

"Unkind!..." he opened his eyes suddenly, eyes dark with pain. "When I was on the way home, I came across a little verse in a book someone lent me... it was this: 'Can't thou be true across so many miles, so many days that keep us still apart'... I thought: what rubbish it was—when two people loved one another... I don't think so now."

"You don't believe me—you don't believe me—"

"I am not fool enough to believe that any man will do for a woman what Anderson has done for you, without some hope of return—no doubt he sent me away because it suited him—to leave the field clear."

Sondra said quietly. "You don't know John if you can say that."

There was a little silence. Then Mark said dully. "And now I suppose I am to be under a fresh obligation to him—this new job—for your sake no doubt, or perhaps to get me out of the way once more. I suppose you are going to tell me I must go alone—"

Sondra's face quivered. "Do you think I should have married you, if I had cared for—anyone else?" she asked.

His hand moved a little, groping for hers.

"You ought never to have married me—I've nothing to offer you—I may never have."

"You've given me your love!"—Sondra said.

It was like sitting by, watching other people, she thought; she would not believe that it was she herself who was trying so hard, and with such an empty heart, to convince him that she loved him.

He said suddenly. "At lunch today—I suppose Anderson made love to you—I suppose you never thought of me."

"We spoke of you all the time—and of your future."

"That was true enough—they had both kept the thought of Mark between them, daring one another to forget him."

She said brokenly—"If you can't trust me, Mark, or ever believe in me again, what sort of a future do you think we shall have?"

"It's a pity I didn't die..." you would have been free."

She closed her eyes; often during the last few weeks some such thought had been in her own mind; and now she hated herself for it.

Mark was a sick man; a pitiful man still when one contrasted him with the lover of a few months ago. A sudden wave of infinite pity swept through Sondra's heart. She could no more have hurt him now than she could have hurt a child.

"Perhaps I shan't always feel like this," she told herself wildly. "Perhaps tomorrow I shall be my old self again—wanting a good time... wanting—John. I'm not really unselfish—I don't want to sacrifice anything, but all the same..."

She felt the tears on her cheeks, and she drew her hand from Mark's to wipe them away.

He turned quickly—"Sondra—"

She would not look at him. "Do you love me, Sondra? If you do—nothing else matters."

For a moment she was silent; for a moment a wild impulse came to her to tell him the truth, to say "I love John—let me go—I can't stay with you."

But the moment passed, leaving her weak and shaken.

She had married this man because she had wanted him—was it his fault that she wanted him no longer?

John had said one should always stand by their mistakes...

She bent her head, smiling through her tears—"Don't you know I love you?" she said, and she kissed him.

Plastic Surgery Used to Rebuild Convicts' Faces

Philadelphia — (7)—Plastic surgery is used today at the Eastern penitentiary literally to "make over" some of the inmates on the theory a nose is just as important to a convict's welfare as a good job—once he gets out of prison.

It was started when Dr. Michael M. Wolfe, a friend of Warden Herbert ("Hard-boiled") Smith, declared prisoners were taught trades and occupations for future life, but that those with battered faces, twisted noses or disfiguring scars were handicapped from the start.

Smith agreed, with the result that Dr. Wolfe for the last year attempted the transformation of some of the toughest faces in the rogues' gallery gratis to prisoners who volunteered.

At first some of the prisoners hesitated but they changed their minds after viewing operations on three inmates known to cellmates as "Punchy Drunk," "Eagle Beak" and "Puggy," the latter former fighter whose nose had stopped too many punches.

Everyone at the penitentiary watched the experiments with interest.

The police did likewise. For "camera-eyed" detectives, who in the past have made it their business to remember convicts, in the future may be fooled by the made-over faces.

Electrical Customers Increase in Wisconsin

Madison — (7)—The Public Service commission today quoted figures from the statistical bulletin of the National Electric Light association to show that Wisconsin was the only state in the east north central group which had an increase in the number of electrical customers during 1931.

The number in Wisconsin increased 8,170 during 1931 whereas Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan showed losses ranging from 137 in Indiana to 14,812 in Illinois, the commission said. Ohio showed a loss of 12,513 and Michigan a loss of 4,827.

PLUM TREE—HUB!

Gloucester, O. James Smith, farmer near here, had a plum tree. Smith tried a grafting experiment on the tree, grafting a branch of a peach tree to it. Now the tree is bearing fruit—but not one plum has been born. The grafted branch is bearing 19 peaches, which is the only fruit on the tree.

Single Fellas Winners In P. C. Ball Series

The first game of the "big series" between the Married Men and The Single Fellas of the Post-Crescent was played last night at Pierce park and the slaughter was said to behold. The Single Fellas won by an overwhelming score of 18 and 9.

The second game of the series will be staged Friday evening at the same place and Eddie Stenard who can manage state champion ball clubs, but who says the Married Men are getting worse, plans to shake up the lineup in hopes of evening the series.

Stenard, LaRose and Arthur toiled for the Married Men last evening and Ness, Rehfeldt and Hartjes for the Single Fellas. Stenard says that next time he's going to leave half his team home, play more of the infield and outfield himself and let LaRose and Bentie be the battery.

Bay Packers to Open Season With Grand Rapids "11"

MICHIGAN TEAM IS SEEKING Franchise in National Pro League

GRAND RAPIDS — With a forward line averaging about 200 pounds and a brilliant collection of backs, the Grand Rapids Maroons will invade Green Bay on Sunday for a gridiron contest against the Packers, three champions of the National league.

The Maroons are coached by Jimmy Bryant, University of Pennsylvania graduate who played professional football with Akron during the heydays of Bill Reid and Fritz Pollard, famous colored halfbacks. His assistant is Porky Seborg. Seborg is well known to professional football fans in Green Bay, having been a regular with the Frankford Yellowjackets for several years.

Seek League Franchise Grand Rapids is bending every effort to place a winning team on the turf this fall and by concluding a successful season hope to acquire a franchise in the National Professional league next year. In addition to the Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay Packers games, the management has arranged satisfactory terms with the Chicago Bears. Negotiations are now in progress to play the New York Giants and Staten Island this fall.

Coach Bryant announced Monday afternoon that Milt Gross, star guard with Jimmy Crowley's Michigan State eleven last fall, has been signed at the same time he also stated that Wild Bill McCall, Dartmouth's hard running halfback in 1930 and one of the East's leading offensive luminaries, had reported here and would play against Green Bay next Sunday.

First Class Backfielders The backfield candidates who have come to terms are Jack Wheeler, Louis Gilbert and Stan Hozer, University of Michigan; George (Shorty) Rojan, Northwestern; Turley Wetzel and Frank Cook, Holland college; Bill Bobaby, Notre Dame; and Jim Parascas and Bill Cook, former Grand Rapids high school stars.

Wheeler, Gilbert and Hozer are seasoned football players while Bobaby formerly served under the Knute Rockne as a fullback with the Ramblers. Cook is a 210-pound fullback and won all-American high school honors at that post with Union High in this city.

Belpre, O. — Myer Christner, Akron, knocked out Russ Rowsey, Huntington (I).

Clintonville Wins Golf Title From Waupaca

Two Teams Play Third Match of Series at Butte des Morts

CLINTONVILLE and Waupaca golf teams met on the Butte des Morts golf course, at Appleton to play off the tie for the Tri-city Trophy, last Saturday. A neutral course was selected to give both teams an equal chance to win this coveted championship which is played for each year by Clintonville, Waupaca, and New London. Clintonville Riverside Club won it last year and was victorious again this year, defeating Waupaca by the title by a score of 47 to 22, Saturday afternoon.

Twenty-six players from each club took part and all expressed their pleasure and extended their thanks to the officers of the Butte des Morts club for the privilege of playing their course.

Joe Krish, Riverside pro, clicked off a 79 for medalist honors for the match. An all-time record was smashed during this match by Lloyd Stichman of Clintonville, who played the entire match as well as a practice round in the morning, making 36 holes in all, using the same tee and the same ball. "Stich" is not Scotch, but just careful.

H. H. Heuer is the new club champion at Clintonville Riverside golf club. In the final match, held Labor day, he defeated E. C. Stuebenvoll, 6 up and 5 to go. The gallery was thrilled by many perfect shots, as both players were on their game and put up a great exhibition of expert golf. The day was very windy, making it difficult to hold shots on the line, both players having a penalty or two for out of bounds shots.

Ex-champion George MacCauley was defeated by Dr. J. W. Devine in the consolation flight, 6 up and 4 to go. L. A. Heuer, club president presented the winner of this flight with a handsome wrought-copper cup.

The handicap tournament held on Sunday and Labor Day was won by James Larson with a score of 87-16-71 net. He won the wool golf sweater, presented by the Dairyman's State Bank. Second prize was won by Guy Billings with a score of 88-14-72 net. His prize was a shirt, presented by the H. I. Schroeder department store.

A 2-ball foursome tournament is planned for next Sunday, Sept. 11.

Junior Gridders Play Season's First Game Maybe you know it, and more likely you don't—but the first football game of the season in Appleton was played yesterday.

Chaff 'n ChatteR

By Gordon R. McIntyre

THERE'S nothing we like more than getting two factions started in an argument and then step off the scene of the conflict and let the others carry on. Therefore we dug-up the following little yarn written by a nationally known sports writer. Its about the Cubs and Yankees—if they meet in the world series. Here 'tis.

"Predictions that bloom in the spring have nothing to do with the case, of course. But last March, your zealous correspondent picked the Cubs to win the National League pennant, for the reason that the club had acquired the services of Burleigh Grimes.

"It turned out that the reasons were Warneke and Grimm. It happened that Grimes didn't get going. Illness and injuries kept him out for weeks at a time.

"But that old woodsman isn't out of the picture yet. In a recent game in which he gave the Giants six hits, the venerable lord of Burleigh showed that he is back. From now on, through the world series, keep in touch with the goings on of Mr. Grimes.

The Two Staffs New York experts seem to be unanimous in the view that the Yankees pitching staff out-classes the mound department of the Cubs. It must be granted that the Cubs, without a good left-hander, will face a disadvantage against the five Yanks who bat left-handed—Combs, Sewell, Ruth, Gehrig and Dickey.

"But it is also true that the Yankees' ace, Lefty Gomez, faces a similar situation when he meets the Cubs. Stephenson, Herman, English, Rayner, Hartnett, Hemsley and Judge are right-handed batters and Mark Koenig is a 'turn luter', which means that he bats either way.

"For the Cubs, it may be said that they have two of the greatest mound pitchers in baseball—Grimes and Bush. It is hard to forget how Bush rallied the Cubs four years ago in the series with the A's. Pitching in a strange park, Philadelphia, and a park made to order for the Mack sluggers, by the way, Bush won the only game of the series that the Cubs took.

Warneke is Question Lon Warneke has been a brilliant pitcher, establishing himself as a 20-game winner. But too much cannot be demanded of him in a world series in his first year. He may be very good and he may be awful. Paul Derringer was the find of the Card's pitching staff last year, winning 18 games, but he was just a pain in the neck in the world series, in which he figured in three games and was officially blamed for losing two.

"Both Root and Malone have been under world series fire, neither have been able to win a game in the 1929 series with the Athletics, though each pitched some masterful ball.

"Root started the series, against Howard Ehmke. After he had shut out the A's for six innings, Foxx drove one out of the park. Bush finished the game, the final score being 3 to 1, only one of the Mack's runs being earned.

Bad Innings "Malone was driven out of the box in the second game of that series. Bush won the third and Root was shamed from the mound in that famous 10-run seventh inning of the fourth game after he had pitched six scoreless innings.

"Malone pitched the last game and it was a fine performance up to the ninth inning. He blanked the A's for eight innings. Then, with one out, and the Cubs leading, 2 to 0, Bishop singled and Haas hit a home run, tying the score. After Hornsby had throubled to center, Foxx was walked and Bing Miller's drive to center broke up the tie.

Chicago Bruins Open Road Trip With 6 Game Lead

Pirates Must Play 20 Games on Foreign Fields, Cubs Only 16

THE Chicago Cubs are not the best road club in the National league but there's nothing in the records to indicate they'll lose much of their present six-game lead on their current eastern invasion.

The second place Pittsburgh Pirates can boast a better record on the road but the Cubs have overcome this by a vastly superior showing at home. Chicago has played 718 ball at home and 459 on the road. The figures for Pittsburgh are 592 at home and 500 on the road.

Here's how the two contenders have fared this year: At home: Chicago 51 20 718 Pittsburgh 45 31 592

Away: Pittsburgh 29 29 500 Chicago 24 33 459 The remainder of the schedule also favors the Cubs, six of whose remaining 22 games will be played at Chicago. Pittsburgh must play all of her remaining 20 games on the road.

There's just a chance that the Pirates can pick up enough ground in the next couple of weeks to make a "crazy" series out of the four games they will play with the Cubs at Wrigley field Sept. 20, 21 and 22.

Action in the major leagues yesterday was restricted entirely to one double-header in the American league, the Cleveland Indians, taking the St. Louis Browns over the hurdles twice, 4-3 and 6-0. Irving Hadley struck out seven Indians in the opener but was the victim of a three-run outburst in the sixth frame. George Connelly was in form in the second game and blanked the Browns with eight scattered hits.

Earl Averill hit his thirty-first homer in this contest. Cleveland ... 000 103 000—4 13 1 St. Louis ... 001 002 000—3 10 1 Russell and Sewell; Hadley and R. Ferrell.

Cleveland ... 002 012 100—6 13 0 St. Louis ... 000 000 000—0 8 2 Connelly and Myatt; Gras and Bengough.

Amateurs Gather for Annual Golf Tourney Baltimore —(P)—The first of the golfers who next week will seek the national amateur golf title over the Five Farms course, today spent the second day in tuning up for the chase.

Charles Egan of Del Monte, Calif., led the early arrivals on the course yesterday. Egan was the national amateur titleholder in 1904 and 1905. With Sam Parry of Birmingham, he practiced several tee shots and studied the layout.

Charles Yates, young Atlanta player, turned in the low score for the day with a 72. After a par nine out, he slipped on the twelfth and fifteenth holes.

Prepare Don's Boat for Trip

Will Be Shipped Back to England Before Repairs Are Made

Detroit —(P)—Miss England III, unsuccessful and disabled challenger for the Harmsworth trophy, will be loaded on a flat car at Walkerville, Ont., today for the first leg of her journey back to England.

At Montreal, she will be put aboard the Duchess of York, which sails Sept. 9.

The broken piston, damaged cylinder and detached throttle control that forced her out of the second heat of the Harmsworth races Saturday will not be repaired until the boat reaches England.

Kaye Don, who drove Miss England III to the present world record of 119.81 miles an hour in Scotland but who failed in his second Harmsworth challenge, will leave either tonight or tomorrow for Toronto.

Cochet, French Net Star Holds Tennis Throngs

Galleries Always Packed When He Takes Court; Parker Beaten

BY GAYLE TALBOT Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK —(P)—Henri Cochet may or may not be the world's greatest tennis player at the moment, but there can be slight doubt the marvelous Little Frenchman tops them all as a box office "draw."

For three days now the big horse shoe stadium at Forest Hills has been comfortably filled with spectators and hundreds more, have spilled on to the outlying courts, all having paid a pretty stiff price for the privilege of watching what was bound to be an indifferent tennis in the opening rounds of the national championships.

Cochet, surrounded by an aura of semi-invincibility, has pulled most of them through the gates. Some have been there to see Ellsworth Vines, America's cannoneer, but it has been noticeable that when Cochet played on the center court the stadium was filled, the other playing fields virtually deserted.

The tournament committee, knowing its audience has not yet assigned Vines to the stadium.

Henri Evades Color It is easy to understand Henri's hold on the public. He exudes color and his grace on the court is that of a dancer. Compared to some of the six-footers he faces on this side, he is a little fellow, but he has the wrists of a Dempsey. That is where he gets the speed and the accuracy in his drives. There is no great arc to his swing and he doesn't bother about the follow-through. He snaps the ball where he wants it to go, endlessly, tirelessly and usually it wins for him.

George Lott, Jr., who made his "comeback" yesterday by defeating 16-year-old Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, clay court and Canadian champion, in four sets, was up against a serious obstacle in Takeo Kuwabara, champion of Japan. Kuwabara was steady as taxes yesterday in beating Bryan Grant, Jr., of Atlanta.

Other matches today pitted Clifford Sutter of New Orleans against H. W. (Bunny) Austin of England; Gregory Mangin of Newark against Les Stoffen of Los Angeles; Wilmer Allison of Austin against Edward Avoery of England; Sidney Wood, Jr., of New York against Frederick Perry of England, and Frank Shields of New York against John Olliff of England.

onlo. The trip will be by train if he leaves tonight, or by plane should he remain until tomorrow. He sails from New York Sept. 16 on the Olympic.

Meanwhile, Gar Wood, successful defender of the symbol of competitive speedboat supremacy, began preparations for the attempt on Don's straightaway speed record, which he expects to make, probably this week, with Miss America X.

Wood entertained the British delegation last night at dinner.

North Carolina State college plans to build a horseshoe football stadium with a seating capacity of 18,000.

Farm House Near Shiocton Burned

Loss, Estimated at $3,000, Is Partly Covered By Insurance

Special to Post-Crescent
Shiocton—The two-story frame house on the James Mc Laughlin farm, located 2 1/2 miles north of the village of Shiocton, occupied by Adam Weber who operates the farm, was burned to the ground about 3:30 Tuesday afternoon. The loss, which is estimated at $3,000, is partly covered by insurance. Neighbors turned in the alarm and the village fire department responded, but the fire had made such headway that it was impossible to save the structure.

Mr. Laughton, who resides in the village, had gone to the farm to do some work and had started a fire in the kitchen range. Sparks from the fire had quite a start before it was noticed. Household goods belonging to Weber were saved.

New York.—Stocks resumed their advance today, with buying developing in large volume in the late trading. Motors, utilities, merchandising shares and other groups made pronounced progress. Gains ranged from 1 to more than 3 points. The closing tone was strong. Transfers aggregated 4,000,000 shares.

Advance began slowly, but gained momentum as the session wore on. Save for a gain of 1/4 of a cent in copper, commodities contributed little to the advance, but yesterday's setback found enough traders waiting to buy on a reaction to put the market back on the upward track.

Auburn shot up more than 10 points, and issues up about 2 to 3 points included Nash, General Motors, Electric Automobile, American Telephone, North American, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, Western Union, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Allied Chemical, United Aircraft, Johns Manville, American Can and others. Chrysler, Radio and International Telephone rose more than a point to 100 1/2.

Commodities were comparatively inactive, copper, which appeared about 70 for a 10 point gain, and Federal Mining, making one of its infrequent appearances, was up 14.

Choice Hogs Get New Preference

Common and Thrashy Lights Showing as Fall Cleanup Starts

Chicago.—(P)—With well finished, medium and thrashy lights showing the early fall clean up of swine is under way, buyers for hogs expressed a distinct preference for the choice animals weighing upward of 230 lbs. Premiums of 5 at 10c over Tuesday's price were available for this class, while strictly choice light butchers and desirable packing sows were held steady to strong.

Satisfactory action marked the early trading period, though the big packers, who checked in 3,000 hogs consigned direct to their plants, were not active competitors for the 240 to 260 lb butchers which shippers and small operators wanted at $4.25 to 4.50. Toppy grades showed no quotable improvement, $4.60 being the peak figure.

Cattle receipts of 9,000 were regarded as a moderate supply. Only eight cars of range offerings were on hand, but considerable native pasture stock was included in the supply. Eastern buyers called for choice heaves and made little distinction between weighty and light offerings.

Substantial supply of live mutons, including 5,000 billed to slaughter houses direct, gave the major killers the second big crop to work on this week. Having failed to bring about any material reduction in prices Tuesday, they redoubled their efforts in that direction early today.

Cal Presents Strong Case For His Party

Magazine Article More Effective Than Key-note Speeches

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—While it had been known that Calvin Coolidge was going to support the reelection of Herbert Hoover, the unstinted praise given by the former president to his successor in office in the article called "The Republican Case" in the Saturday Evening post this week came somewhat as a surprise to the political world.

Mr. Coolidge's article is a far more active campaign document for the Republicans than any of the keynote speeches. His treatment of the depression and the difficulties facing President Hoover and the latter's methods in meeting the crisis are a weaving together of the Republican argument with the masterly hand of a man who knows from long experience in politics what it is that the average man wants to know and likes to hear. Mr. Coolidge doesn't try to appeal to Democrats. He recognizes that numerically the Republicans have had the advantage and that if he can persuade Republicans to stay regular he will be doing his candidate the best service.

Three Distinct Phases
There is something naive and yet sophisticated about Mr. Coolidge's handling of the Republican case which can be understood only if it is realized that the former president wasn't writing for the critics but for the average man who has been inclined to show his discontent by attacks on the president and his capacity as well as upon the Republican regime for the economic conditions of the last three years. Mr. Coolidge follows Republican strategy pretty closely in dividing the depression into three parts—the period before the British went off the gold standard, the panic that followed and now the period of recovery through the reconstruction program of the government.

Like other Republican leaders Mr. Coolidge places much of the blame for America's troubles on events outside of the control of the United States. He even refers pointedly to the Hstry failure in England as starting the 1929 toboggan. As for blame being heaped on Mr. Hoover, the former president says it is as unthinkable as to blame Woodrow Wilson for the closing of the stock exchange and panic of 1914 which attended the outbreak of the European war.

Perhaps in the treatment of the prohibition question, Mr. Coolidge's approach is even more practiced than on any other problem. He refuses to get excited over phrases or details and says it all boils down to the necessity of retaining such benefits that have accrued and getting rid of the abuses and that this the Republican platform sets out to do and congress can be depended on to work out the details. He sees virtue in the Hawley-Smoot tariff, thinks it fortunate that America had such a tariff when the other countries were getting ready to pay us in paper-currencies and sees merit in what the farm board has done, especially in saving banks in the middle west and in giving the farmer for a long time a price above world levels.

Sees Farmer Gain
Mr. Coolidge follows the simple rule of admitting nothing as a weakness and instead building up every weak spot in the armor as a point of strength. He thinks the farmer has been immensely benefited. As for Mr. Hoover personally, the former president speaks of the fine service rendered by the president as secretary of commerce and adds that he is the best posted man in America on economic conditions. If it be thought that Mr. Hoover was inexperienced in handling legislative matters, Mr. Coolidge says the president has been patient and has learned how to deal with congress.

All in all Mr. Coolidge thinks the Republican party a great institution and Mr. Hoover a good man to lead it again. George Horace Lorimer, the editor of the Saturday Evening Post, anticipates that in a few weeks Alfred E. Smith will write about the Democratic case. Some of the Roosevelt men will now be able to say to the former governor of New York that here is his chance to do for Roosevelt what Mr. Coolidge was

Mrs. Florence Hurley Is Killed in Accident

Chicago—(P)—Mrs. Florence Hurley, wife of Edward N. Hurley, wartime chairman of the United States Shipping board, was killed in the wreck of an automobile hit by a train in suburban Hillside Tuesday.

Her husband, Chicago industrialist, was attending a directors' meeting here when he was notified of the accident. He rushed to the hospital but arrived three minutes after she died.

Mrs. Hurley was the former Florence Amberg of Chicago. She was 47 and Mr. Hurley's second wife.

She was enroute from their home in Wheaton to Chicago with Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan, also of Wheaton. They were taken to the hospital with injuries.

ready willing to do for Hoover; that Democrats ought to stand together just as Republicans do. Certainly these two magazine articles may influence millions of votes especially if the national headquarters of the two parties distribute them as texts for their speakers as well as their precinct workers. The Coolidge article was certainly comprehensive in its handling of the whole campaign and every issue in it. Al Smith will have no difficulty in answering from the Democratic standpoint especially in his attack on the Hoover administration but it remains to be seen how far he will go affirmatively in asking Mr. Roosevelt's election. Milk Prices Gain, Report Declares

83 Cents Per 100, or 4 Cents Above Quotations in July

Madison—(P)—Milk prices in Wisconsin last month advanced 4 cents over July quotations, going to 83 cents per hundred pounds, a seasonal gain larger than normal. Walter Ebling, statistician for the U. S. and Wisconsin Departments of Agriculture, reported Tuesday.

The seasonal advance has brought milk prices to a point 6 cents higher than the low mark established in June, 1931.

Gains in chicken and egg values accompanied the milk price advance and brought the August level of Wisconsin farm prices a moderate advance over those of July although grain prices and livestock values sagged. The price index rose one point in August, bringing it to 88 per cent of pre-war.

Farm prices of Wisconsin livestock went lower during August but are still above the low levels established before the share bulge in July. In mid-August farmers were receiving $3.90 per hundred pounds for hogs as compared with $4.20 in July and $2.90 in June.

August beef cattle prices averaged $3.30 per hundredweight, 20 cents below the July quotation but 40 cents higher than the June level. Veal calves were bringing $4.90 per hundred for August, 10 cents above July and 90 cents higher than the season's low point in April.

As the threshing season approached, farm prices for grain worked lower. Oats 21 cents per bushel in August, 4 cents lower than mid-July, barley was down 6 cents to 33 cents per bushel while the Wisconsin farm price of wheat averaged 52 cents for August, 4
